Housing Commission head is fired

Ernie Davis, three-time president and a member of the Romulus Housing Commission for the last 13 years, has been fired from that post by Mayor William M. Oakley. The mayor said he sent a letter Friday to Davis informing him of his dismissal. Davis and three of his commission members — Mrs. Zeffie

Beanum, Oliver Warren and Mrs. Theresa Washington — have been involved in a hassle for the last several months, the Roman learned. Also disclosed and confirmed is that a petition drive to oust Davis was just beginning to take shape under the leadership of Miss Earline Mosley, a tenant in the 101-unit housing commission complex in the north end of the city. Miss Mosley said she had inquired at city hall Friday about how to conduct a petition drive and said Davis failed to obtain badly needed modernization funds from the federal government. "I've attended several meetings of the commission and I was upset at how he carried himself. He refused to sign checks due the contractor for work done on the housing units. The meeting was a three-ring circus," she declared. Contacted by the Roman, Davis said the petition drive was really the work of Mrs. Beanum. He accused her, Warren and Mrs. Washington of being illegal members of the commission. He said that since Mayor Oakley took office, the three had not been reappointed to terms which have since expired. Members of the housing commission are elected to fill one, two, three, four and five-year terms. Monday afternoon, Davis called the Roman to report that he had been notified that Oakley was calling an "illegal" meeting that night at commission headquarters "to tell all of the facts and to get rid of me". A call to city hall to the mayor confirmed that Oakley had fired Davis. "I sent the letter Friday dismissing him and he should have gotten it on Saturday," Oakley said. He said it was possible that Davis had not yet received notice of his discharge.

In his conversation with the Roman on Monday, Davis gave no inclination that he had been fired by the mayor.

The mayor, in commenting on Davis' firing, said, "Mr. Davis means well, but the records at the housing commission are a mess." Oakley said he had three documents on the same subject, all with different facts, concerning commission business.

Next week, Oakley said he will appoint "three or four new members" to the housing commission, probably the same person now serving.

"When I came into office, I sent letters to all of the housing commission members asking them to continue serving until a replacement was named. It was my understanding that should these commission members serve past their term, they would still be classified as legal members," the mayor explained.

He said he was not sure if Davis' present term on the board was legal.

Named to block grant advisory council

Inkster Mayor Terrel M. LeCesne (left) and Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley congratulate each other after being elected last week to serve on the 12-member Wayne County Block Grant Advisory Council. This year,

Romulus, Inkster mayors to help give out fed funds

Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley and Inkster Mayor Terrel M. LeCesne have been elected to serve on the Wayne County Block Grant Advisory Council.

Thirty-two Wayne County communities, out of a total of 44, have banded together to seek federal monies in an effort to collectively increase their chances of receiving the vital block grant allocations awarded yearly by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Representatives from those 32 communities met last week in Garden City and unanimously elected Oakley and LeCesne, among 12 other officials, to serve on this pivotal decision-making council.

This year, the advisory council will dispense approximately $5.4 million among its members, following strict HUD guidelines regarding income levels, minority populations, etc.

Last year, Romulus' share was $289,000, the largest of any member community.

Commenting on his election, Oakley said he was grateful for the opportunity to serve in this "all important capacity at the county level" and said he was hopeful, considering the demographics of Romulus, that the city will again be awarded a substantial amount of federal funds.

Those funds were spent throughout last year on such projects as downtown revitalization, housing rehabilitation, neighborhood improvements, and cleanup and marketing plans at the city-owned lots in the urban renewal area.

Some of next year's block grant money has already been earmarked by the city council to construct a fifth Romulus fire station on the west side of the city and to make improvements to the senior citizen recreation building on Bibbins Street.

Members of the advisory council serve for one year and will meet approximately 10 times throughout the coming year. The council is chaired by Allen Park Mayor Frank Lada.

New body would aid area communities

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

Strength in unity was the prevailing theme last week as area communities discussed creation of a consortium which would enable them to accomplish together what each could not do alone.

The grouping together of the cities of Romulus and Belleville and the townships of Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron into a common association primarily could result in obtaining federal grant monies which each could use, but might not be able to get separately.

The two-hour meeting at the Van Buren Township Hall Thursday was attended by: Van Buren Sup. Pat Cullin, Van Buren Treasurer Dorothy York, Emily Perri McClendon, Van Buren community development director; Sumpter Sup. Robert K. Demski; Sumpter Township Manager Henry Redman; Huron Sup. Roy Raker; Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley; and Belleville Mayor Justin Emerson was out of the city.

Also present the session was James Curran, director of the Wayne County Office of Program Development, and Dewey Henry, director of the Downriver Community Conference.

Henry, who heads a 14-community consortium of the type being studied in last week's meeting, was there to explain what his organization has been able to accomplish for its participating members.

The meeting in Van Buren was called to hear details of the consortium, the brainchild of Redman, who recently obtained a $58,000 federal grant to pursue creation of such a group.

Following discussion of the consortium concept, Redman was requested to prepare a budget showing how much each member community would be expected to contribute in funds and free services in lieu of money, such as office space, help from staff members, etc.

Redman's proposal and his request to become director of the newly-formed consortium will be taken back to each community by their officials and studied. A decision is expected sometime after a second session March 9 at the Van Buren Township Hall.

How such a consortium would function is best exemplified by what it could do for a small community such as Belleville, whose population barely exceeds the 3,000 mark. Since its small size stops it from obtaining certain federal grants, Belleville can secure such needed funds by entering into a joint request with other members of the consortium.

Other services which the consortium would provide would include cheaper insurance rates for employees of the member communities. Henry told how his Downriver Community Conference was able to purchase hospitalization and other insurance for community employees by pooling them into one large group for which cheaper rates were available.

Seniors plan trip

The Romulus senior citizens are planning a trip to the Ice Capades in Detroit for Saturday, March 17. Cost of the ticket is $5 per person. They will be leaving the senior citizens drop-in-center at noon and stopping at Herrick's roast beef for dinner after the Ice Capades. Any senior interested in joining in the fun can contact the Romulus Recreation Department, 941-0666 extension 617 between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Hearing set on noise walls

Noise abatement proposals along sections of Interstate 275 freeway in Western Wayne County between Ford Road in Canton Township and Ecorse Road will be the subject of a public hearing March 15 in Romulus.

According to the Michigan Department of Transportation, the hearing will be held in the Romulus City Hall, 11111 Wayne Road, at 8 p.m.

The department is proposing construction of two noise walls, both on the west side of I-275 — one from the Palmer Road overpass north 2,600 feet and the second from the US-12 (Michigan Avenue) southbound entrance ramp south 3,000 feet.

Brochures describing the proposed project are available for free distribution at the Romulus Municipal Building; or by calling the department's Planning Information Office in Lansing, toll-free at 1-800-292-9576.

Testimony will be taken from interested citizens regarding the social, environmental and economic impact of the proposed project. Written statements and exhibits in place of or addition to verbal statements at the hearing may be submitted for the record up to 15 days following the hearing. They should be submitted to Jack E. Morgan, Manager, Public Involvement Section, Department of Transportation, Lansing 48909.

To further assist in public understanding of the project, department representatives will be present at the hearing site in Romulus one hour prior to the hearing to explain the project and answer questions.

Four area schools get funds

Four area school districts will share in $19,900,773 in state school aid which will be distributed in the 13th Senate District in February and March, according to Sen. William Faust (D-Westland).

Area school districts and money to be received during February are: Airport Community School District - $313,516; Romulus Community Schools, $609,802; Huron School District - $500,836; and Van Buren Public Schools - $796,849.

Also receiving money under the federal aid program and sharing in $765,128 in February are: Romulus Community Schools - $46,813 in Title I funds and $22,061 in vocational education funds.

Faust said that the state and federal funds are paid during the school year on the first day of August, October, December, February, April and June.

Police address new 'watch' group

Wayne County Sheriff investigator Jerry Billiter is pictured addressing an overflow crowd of Windcliff Subdivision residents last week in Romulus for the first meeting of that area's neighborhood watch organization. Interest in the successful crime prevention program, started several months ago in the Meadows Subdivision is spreading to other areas of the city including Oakbrooke and Huron River Estates, according to Jay Young, Romulus public information officer. Eighty people participated in the meeting last week at Cory School and many signed up afterwards to actively participate in the program. The next meeting for the Windcliff area will be early in March, as soon as institutional materials arrive from the National Sheriff's Association in Washington, D.C. (Photo by Jay Young.)

Your Associated Newspapers carrier will be calling on you this week to make the collection for February.

When you pay the carrier, he or she will give you a receipt that entitles you to a special offer at Fiesta Lanes, 38250 Ford Road in Westland. You will be able to enjoy three free games of bowling if you pay for three games, when you present your receipt to them.

We hope you will remember the hard work of your carrier during this very cold month, and pay him or her on the first call.

'Marriage penalty': Fair treatment under that law

(This is the third in a series of articles prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants offering advice on filing 1978 income tax returns.)

Tax treatment that is fair for everyone continues to elude even the most determined tax reformers. Once again Congress has worked long and hard at reshuffling the tax laws, still no one would describe the results as a new deal, equitable to all.

An example of old inequities that persist is the "marriage penalty," which causes married couples to pay more taxes than two unmarried individuals with the same income, exemptions and deductions.

This was not an intended result. It was an inadvertent side effect of efforts to correct a previous imbalance resulting from still earlier adjustments in the tax code.

The chain of unsuccessful attempts at achieving fair treatment for married and unmarried alike began in 1948, when it was decided that families should be treated as single economic units, with family income taxed as though each spouse had earned half of it, thus sharply reducing the tax rate in cases where one spouse, in fact, earned the bulk of the income.

The income-splitting option gave such families an advantage over those in which both spouses earned roughly equal incomes, and an even bigger advantage over single individuals.

The latter protested this treatment and continued to do so until 1971, when Congress granted a more favorable rate for the single individual, thus putting the shoe on the other foot once more.

Since 1971 it has been working couples' turn to protest, and they have been doing so as successive administrations have wrestled with the problem, so far to no avail.

Congress has resisted various solutions that have been offered, partly because it feared they would lead to excessive loss of tax revenues, but chiefly because changing the rules would violate the principle of progressivity, which requires that taxes be levied according to the ability to pay.

With the issue unresolved, what can married couples who both have incomes do to minimize their taxes?

Forget about filing singly; the marriage penalty for that is even worse than with a joint return. Forget also getting a "quickie" divorce in December and then remarrying in January so that at year-end you are "single". Internal Revenue Service has ruled such divorces, obtained solely for tax reasons, are a sham and has decided they do not alter a couple's tax status.

What, then, can working couples do?

First, they can be extra diligent in identifying business deductions. With two people employed in the family there is twice as much likelihood of job-related deductions, such as business travel and entertainment.

If you have young children, or a disabled adult you have to hire someone to look after so that both of you can hold jobs, look into the child-care credit. With two or more qualifying dependents this credit could be worth as much as $800, depending on your income level.

If one of you began working again in just the past year or so, it's possible that your combined incomes have taken a big jump in 1978. If so, you may be eligible for income averaging. This permits you to calculate your tax bill for the current year by assuming that you earned the income over a five-year period — the current and preceding four years.

If one of you is self-employed, consider protecting part of your income from being taxed now by putting it in a Keogh-type pension fund. Or if either of you is not covered by a pension or profit-sharing plan, you might be able to defer until retirement the taxes on some income by setting up an Individual Retirement Account.

Builder wins bid for work

A Williamston, Mich., contractor and a firm from Livonia are the low bidders on two projects being considered by the State Department of Transportation.

Midwest Bridge Co. of Williamston was the lowest of five firms, with a bid of $57,141, for salvaging and reconstruction of steel guardrail and the construction of bridge pier filler walls on one mile of US-12 from the west Wayne County line east to US-12BR in Van Buren Township. The estimated date of completion is June 1979.

The Wayne-Oakland Landscape Co. was the lowest of three, with a bid of $54,152, for landscaping the rest area on northbound I-275 north of Palmer Road in Canton Township. The estimated date of completion is May 1981.

The bids must be approved by the Michigan Transportation Commission and the State Administrative Board before contracts can be awarded.

MUSKAL NOTES
by Doug Brown

The American musical art form referred to as the blues has its roots in the rural south and was created primarily by black Americans. The deep south and Texas seem to have been the earliest centers of blues singing and music. As blacks spread throughout the country, so did their music. As a result, Texas blues are heard on the west coast; Mississippi blues are popular in Chicago; and New York blues are rooted in the blues of Southeastern states.

Create your own kind of music on a musical instrument from DOUG BROWN MUSIC, 9219 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus, 941-9494. We feature the outstanding line of Lowrey organs built to provide you with many years of total musical enjoyment. Watch for our occasional specials.

HELPFUL HINT: And, as you no doubt have recognized, blues influence has penetrated most kinds of music today, including rock, country and jazz.

In Brief

Varner to head society

Fearl Varner has been elected president of the newly-formed Romulus Historical Society. Also elected were: Al Wilkerson, vice president; Helen Hay, secretary; and Gloria Chandler, treasurer.

The society, which will meet at the Romulus Public Library on the third Wednesday of each month, set dues at $5 for active members, $7 for associate members, and $25 for contributing members.

'Night at Silverdome'

"Romulus Night at the Silverdome," honoring Piston guard John Long, a Romulus resident and graduate of Romulus High School class of 1974, will be held Friday, April 6, 1979 at 8 p.m. at the Pontiac Silverdome.

The occasion will pit the Detroit Pistons against the Atlanta Hawks in the last home game of the basketball season for Detroit. Tickets for the game, including round-trip bus transportation leaving city hall at 6 p.m. and returning at approximately 11:30 p.m., will cost only $6 and are available at the mayor's office, the school board office and any Romulus school office. All tickets are for reserved seats behind the piston's bench. Anyone under 12 years of age must be accompanied by an adult.

All ticket sales are final and strictly on a cash basis. Tickets will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis, so residents are urged to buy their tickets early to get the best seats.

15 Permits issued

A total of 15 building permits of all types were issued during January by the Romulus building department, with total construction amounting to $603,153, according to Hyle J. Carmichael, acting director.

A breakdown of permits showed: 1 - one family house; 2 - demolished buildings; 10 - additions and alterations; and 2 - industrial buildings.

Federal-Mogul will build an addition for a machine pit and offices on Middlebelt Road between Smith and Ecorse roads at a cost of $412,000.

A light industrial building costing $105,000 will be constructed by Bernard Joseph on the east side of Huron River Drive between Eureka and Pennsylvania roads.

Drive aims to impress teens that shoplifting is a crime

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

All across the nation, in hamlets, towns and large metropolitan cities, a public education campaign is being waged to convince teenagers of an important fact — shoplifting is a crime!

Full-page ads in downtown Detroit daily newspapers show a long-haired teenager with a prison number at the bottom of the photo and carrying a headline in bold, black letters — "What's another word for shoplifting? Stealing."

The ad goes on to declare that shoplifting is "no joke", but a crime serious enough to land the perpetrator in jail. The resulting criminal record can kill chances for a good job, mean a turndown on a loan or being kept out of college.

In addition, the ad stresses that everyone is affected, even those people who never dream of shoplifting. Such is the loss from shoplifting to the store owner that prices have to be raised to compensate for the fall in profits, resulting in higher prices to all consumers.

On the local scene, Tony Andrews, a member of the board of directors of the Belleville-Van Buren Chamber of Commerce, says shoplifting has become a problem for him.

As owner of Andrews Pharmacy in Belleville and Minder's Drugs in Garden City, he knows full well how much he loses annually to young shoplifters.

"I can't chase all of the kids away," he said. "Some are good customers."

Andrews echoes the sentiments of other store owners in the huge losses they incur yearly and that most are lenient, at first, in dealing with young shoplifters.

"If we catch a kid shoplifting, we talk to them and to their parents," he explained. "If the police are called in, they also talk to the parents."

Andrews explained that hiring security guards is too expensive and that stores like his which stock hundreds of small items are those usually victimized.

Teenagers look upon stores where they get away with stealing as a "soft touch" and only the actual prosecution of offenders puts a damper on continued shoplifting, he said.

He said shoplifting seems to be worse in the more affluent areas and that parents sometimes compound the problem there.

"If the kids of wealthy parents are caught shoplifting and the parents are notified, they tell the merchants to put the items stolen on their charge cards. This doesn't help the teenager or solve the problems," he said.

Public schools where teenagers attend classes get into the act also. Jim Richendollar, principal of Belleville High School, said consultation with and counseling by school authorities are sometimes made a condition of punishment meted out to shoplifters.

He said he has received few calls from Belleville merchants, most coming from such large stores as Kmart and Meijers Thrifty Acres.

Brian Michmerhuizen, manager of the Meijers store in Canton Township, said, "Shoplifting is always a problem at Meijers. Our self-service program lends itself to stealing."

Questioned about prosecution by Meijers, Michmerhuizen explained circumstances had much to do with what his store does with shoplifters.

"If it's the first offense and the offender is young, we will cooperate with authorities to rehabilitate the shoplifter," he said.

But, he added, if the offender has committed shoplifting on several occasions and "has a bad track record", then Meijers will prosecute the offender to the full extent of the law, he said.

"In those cases where rehabilitation is deemed appropriate, myself and members of my staff talk to the young shoplifter. In fact, we go to the schools and give talks pointing out the seriousness of shoplifting and its consequences," he emphasized.

Michmerhuizen said he was not at liberty to disclose how much shoplifting cost Meijers annually, but did admit it was "sizeable".

On a nation-wide basis, authorities estimate that about 70 percent of those persons arrested for shoplifting are juveniles. Studies show many shoplift because of "dares" from fellow students, such as being "chicken" if they refuse to steal.

Some teenage organizations make it mandatory for a student to shoplift as a ritual of initiation. Many youngsters don't believe shoplifting is stealing, because the stores are so big that a little theft here and there won't hurt anything.

FBI reports, however, show that shoplifting costs American retailers more than $2 billion a year!

Shoplifting, too, can lead to more serious offenses. Many a hardened criminal's police record begins with the work "shoplifting".

In Michigan, shoplifting is considered a felony and is punishable by imprisonment in a state prison and/or heavy fines.

Not known too well is that Michigan law permits a merchant to use any "reasonable" measure to protect himself against shoplifting and to apprehend those whom he suspects of the offense without recourse against the store owner if he should be proven wrong.

Authorities say the probable shoplifter: comes home from shopping with more merchandise than he or she can afford and with no sales slips, goes shopping with an oversized purse, and are forever swapping clothes with their friends (not their own).

Merriman PTA honored

Valentine's Day was the theme for the annual Founder's Day Dinner sponsored by the Merriman School PTA.

The dinner this year served several purposes — the first honoring the founding of the Merriman PTA, and the second honoring two school employees who were leaving the Merriman School. Miss Marilyn Vaught, school secretary at Merriman for the past four and a half years, left to take another job within the district, and Paul Govensky, school custodian, retired from Romulus Public Schools after serving staff and students at Merriman School for the last seven years.

Serving as master of ceremonies for the program was Richard Goode, principal of Merriman School. Goode, along with the PTA, presented Miss Vaught and "Mr. Paul" with plaques, expressing appreciation for their years of service. They were designated as the official guests of honor for the evening.

In attendance at the dinner were a number of past presidents from the Merriman PTA: Bob Knight, Ken Berlin, Mrs. Carol Bales, Mrs. Lynn Slaughter, Ray Cianfarani, and Ron Zawacki.

Representatives from the City of Romulus included: William Oakley, mayor; Mrs. Mary Ann Banks, mayor pro tem; and Gervazio Canejo, council member and Mrs. Canejo. Guests representing the Romulus Board of Education were: Wayne Avery, president; Mrs. Margaret Cole, vice president; Mrs. Theresa Kraft, trustee; and Ronald Kraft; and Mrs. Joann Marvicsin, trustee. Also present was Hulen Yates, former school board member.

Officials from the Romulus School District were Thomas Janack, assistant superintendent for maintenance and operations and Mrs. Janack; Art McPharlin, principal for Hale Creek School; and Mrs. Audrey Kazanowski, principal for Mount Pleasant School.

Meat, beverages, rolls and butter for the dinner were furnished by the PTA, and people attending were asked to bring a salad, casserole, or dish of their ethnic background to share.

Arrangements for the dinner were handled by Rosalie Berlin, Mary Drouillard, and Sylvia Thompson. The present PTA at Merriman is headed by Mrs. Carol Kowalski, president; Richard Szente, vice president; Mrs. Rosalie Berlin, secretary; and Ron Zawacki, treasurer.

New acting principal

Mrs. Audrey Kazanowski, learning specialist at Merriman Elementary School, Romulus, has been named acting principal of Mt. Pleasant Elementary School, also in Romulus. She replaces Terrel M. LeCesne, former principal, who was promoted to personnel and employee relations manager, with offices in the central administration building. (Photo by Tom Greenwood, ANP staff photographer.)

Seek out job interests

Al Wilkerson (left), vocational counselor, and Bob Beauchamp, data processing instructor, discuss interest survey conducted at Romulus Senior High School recently to determine job likes and dislikes of students. Wilkerson implemented the survey, while Beauchamp developed the program to process it. Students at the school will have an opportunity on Career Day, March 21, to discuss and explore various occupations with employers who visit the school on that day.

Career Day is March 21

What do I want to do after graduation? This is a common question of many high school students. Romulus Senior High students will have an added opportunity to explore and personally ask questions of adults in various occupations during Career Day, March 21.

An interest survey was implemented at the school by Al Wilkerson, vocational counselor, while Bob Beauchamp, data processing instructor, developed the program to process the survey. A precise list of student career interests emerged as a result. Arrangement for speakers from various occupations to talk to students is in the process. Some of the favorite occupations of students turned out to be child care, data processing, accounting, auto body repair, broadcasting and law, the survey revealed.

Career Day was held two years ago at the senior high and was highly successful. The students are looking forward to hearing and visiting with speakers in the occupations of their choice.

Scheduling will be handled so that students will be able to see four speakers during the course of the morning. Coffee and doughnuts will be served and a luncheon is planned in the Romulette Room at the senior high for guest speakers.

The Career Day will give Romulus students the opportunity to explore their occupational interests, learn more about what subjects are necessary in high school, what further training may be needed, information on entry level, salary and duties, and what opportunities are needed for promotion, etc. Anyone having questions on Romulus Senior High Career Day, is asked to call the Career Opportunities Resource Center at 941-0800.

Marching band members audition

Select members of the Romulus High School marching band audition before members of the city-school committee last week in anticipation of performing before some 7,000 people at the Pontiac Silverdome on April 6, the special "Romulus Night at the Silverdome." The band, under the direction of band master Henry James, presented two dance numbers, which one member of the committee said is guaranteed to "bring down the house" on Romulus night. Tickets for the special event cost $6, including roundtrip transportation from the city hall parking lot, and are on sale at the mayor's office, city hall, the school board office and all 12 Romulus public schools. Pictured (left to right) are committee members Larry Moore, Art McPharlin, John Shea, Terrel LeCesne and Joel Carr. (Photo by Jay Young.)

New Boston residents Mr. and Mrs. Elden Krzyzyske took a closer look at the new lawn and garden tractors on exhibit in a mini-trade show, held in Las Vegas, Nev., last month. The Krzyzyskes attended the Wheel Horse

Special 'runs' cater to tobogganers

Tobogganing enthusiasts seeking a sledding thrill should try the iced runs at one of five specially groomed facilities in southern Michigan, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"The exhilaration of hitting speeds of more than 50 miles per hour over a steeply banked course such as Echo Valley near Kalamazoo is a fast-paced activity the whole family can enjoy," said Auto Club touring manager Joseph Ratke. "Tobogganing also requires a minimum of athletic skill of expense."

He emphasized that tobogganers should wear layered clothing, insulated boots, gloves or mittens and a hat or cap covering the ears to protect against frostbite.

Auto Club lists four public facilities in southeast Michigan and one private operation in southwest Michigan with special toboggan runs:

—Echo Valley, 8495 E. H. Avenue, Kalamazoo. Eight lighted, steeply banked, curved runs measuring one-quarter mile each. Entrance fee is $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for youngsters 12 years and under. Toboggans provided. Runs groomed daily. Warming house. Open 5 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily, weather permitting.

daily. Warming house, refreshments. Open 7-11 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday and 1 to 8 p.m. Sunday. Closed Monday-Thursday.

—Kensington Metropark, one mile south of Milford. Five banked, curved runs up to 850 feet long. Entrance fee is $2 per car, or $7 annual charge. No toboggans provided. Runs groomed daily. Warming house, refreshments. Open 10 a.m. to dark daily.

—Middle Rouge Parkway, Edward Hines Drive between Six and Seven Mile roads, Northville. Two lighted, straight, banked runs about 400 feet long. Free admission. No toboggans provided. Runs groomed daily. Warming house. Open 5 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily, weather permitting.

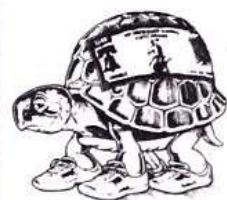

—Baldock Park, Chandler Park Drive and Canyon, Detroit. Two lighted, straight, banked runs about 130 feet long. Free admission. No toboggans provided. Grooming as necessary. Warming house. Open sunrise to 10 p.m. daily.

—Musphy Park, East Boulevard between Auburn and South Boulevard, Pontiac. One lighted, straight, banked 900-foot run. Free admission. Toboggans rented for 75 cents per hour. Grooming as necessary. Bonfire. Open 4 to 10 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Closed Monday-Thursday.

The Auto Club listing includes only those facilities with specially constructed runs. Tobogganers also will find many public hills for tobogganing and sledding throughout the state.

Things that matter

Food and fellowship... Why not?

By GEORGE PLAGENZ
United Feature Syndicate

I live in Cleveland.
I will pause briefly here while you insert your favorite Cleveland joke and have a good laugh at the expense of those of us "unfortunate" enough to live here.

The latest Cleveland jokes have to do with the prayer breakfasts (to pray for the city) which are now being held every week at a downtown Cleveland church.

"Look what the White House prayer breakfasts did for Nixon!"

some cynics are chuckling.

"I wonder what they serve at a prayer breakfast — Virgin Marys and Eggs Benedict?" goes another gag. (A Virgin Mary is a Bloody Mary without the vodka.)

What bothers me more than the jokes of outsiders is the fun some Clevelanders are having with the prayer breakfast idea.

"I'm not against prayer," says on skeptical church leader in Cleveland, "but prayer and corn flakes? Can't we pray without food?"

Of course we can. Just as we can have friends in to our homes without buying a rib roast and getting out the good silver. It's just that food and friends and nice occasions go together. Prayer breakfasts are a nice occasion.

As a matter of fact, food and religion always go nicely together. I am a great fan of church suppers.

A church basement or parish hall where supper is being served can be the friendliest place on God's earth — often friendlier than it is in church!

The service at a church supper is the best in the world. The witnesses can't do enough for you. Your coffee cup is never empty. When you go back for a second helping, that's the nicest compliment you can bestow.

Should you ever find yourself all alone and lonely in a strange city, hie you to a church supper. If you are looking for a place to live, the person next to you will know somebody who knows where there is a good apartment — even though everybody else has told you there isn't a thing available in the city.

If you need a job, you will get plenty of helpful suggestions and maybe even an important introduction. In any case, you'll feel at home. You'll forget that you were lonely. And, of course, you'll be well-fed.

At least that's the way it used to be. I'm afraid that the current trend to potluck suppers, where every family is supposed to bring along a casserole, pretty much leaves the visitor out. Maybe not technically, but if he does come, it makes him a special case. He is likely to feel out of place, for potluck suppers tend to be "closed" affairs.

Still, potluck suppers are easier to put on, and that's important — for whenever the subject of church suppers comes up, somebody always asks, "Who's going to do all the work?"

Well, how about them? The best church suppers I have ever attended were put on by the men of the Methodist Church in Ogunquit, Maine. They did everything. They did the cooking, peeled the potatoes, "schnibbled" the beans, set the table, served the meals, cleared the tables and did the dishes.

The cooking was superb, but that isn't too surprising. Men are good cooks, and it's a rare man who doesn't brag about some dish or other that he can whip up.

But the real kitchen heroes are not the cooks but the men who willingly help with the menial chores around the kitchen — clearing the table, washing the dishes, carrying out the garbage and sweeping the kitchen floor.

Cooking your specialty is good fun and will get you compliments from your guests. We men like to do it because it flatters our ego.

Monuments highlight ANP tour of Washington, D.C.

Timing is running out to make reservations for Associated Newspapers third annual Cherry Blossom tour of Washington, D.C., planned for April 6-8.

The itinerary includes visits to many of the monuments and shrines located in the Capital. One place tour members will visit will be the National Gallery of Art, which houses the finest collection in the world of man's achievements in painting, sculpture and graphic arts.

Presenting the most comprehensive survey of Italian paintings and sculpture in the western hemisphere, the gallery includes the only paintings by Leonardo da Vinci outside Europe.

The gallery's collections are particularly rich in the works of Rembrandt and the French Impressionists, as well as American, British, French, Flemish and Spanish art.

The cost of the tour is $260 per person, based on double occupancy, and includes air fare, hotel accommodations, meals, three full days of sightseeing, tour admissions, baggage and handling and tips.

Reservations are limited to the first 50 readers. To insure space on this spring tour, contact Gene Wertz at 729-4000, ext. 257, or visit the Associated Newspapers' office at 35540 Michigan Avenue, Wayne.

Can you survive?

(This is the first in a series of 12 articles, entitled Can You Survive, containing survival tips from the U.S. Air Force Survival School at Fairchild Air Force Base, Wash.)

Snow blindness is caused by the exposure of the unprotected eye to glare on snow. The symptoms are burning, watering, or inflamed eyes, poor vision and headaches. If you are afflicted with this disorder, WOULD YOU...

A. Protect the eyes by staying in a dark shelter or by wearing a lightproof bandage.

B. Protect the eyes by putting on a pair of sunglasses or goggles.

C. Protect the eyes by avoiding extreme light. D. Do nothing. The snow blindness is only a temporary ailment and will disappear in a few hours.

TO SURVIVE

Alternative (A) is the recommended treatment for snow blindness according to survival experts. The eye should be protected by staying in a dark shelter or utilizing a lightproof bandage. Pain can be relieved by the application of cold compresses, if there is no danger from freezing, and by taking aspirin.

Alternative (B) is more a preventive measure to avoid snow blindness than a treatment. The wearing of sunglasses or goggles will assist in the prevention of snow blindness and will be of only limited assistance in treating advanced stages of the ailment.

(A) still is the best solution in the face of the conditions described.

(C) does not incorporate definitive treatment as described in (A).

While (D) is correct in stating that snow blindness is only a temporary ailment, to do nothing would only cause the condition to worsen resulting in extreme pain and possible extenuating complications. Most snow blindness victims recover within 18 hours without medical treatment provided definitive care is taken at the onset of the ailment.

It is important to remember — victims of snow blindness are more susceptible to later attacks, and that is avoidable by simply wearing protective sun goggles. (A service of your local Air Force recruiter.)

Car insurance rates: No recourse but to pay

(This is one of a series of public service articles explaining in general terms a provision of Michigan Law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law on their private legal affairs should consult with a private attorney.)

By Att. Gen.
FRANK KELLEY

The rates we pay to insure our cars, our homes, and our businesses seem to go up on a regular basis while the consumer must continue to pay and pay and pay.

It may seem that insurance rates are arbitrarily set, and you the homeowner or businessman, have no recourse but to pay them.

Inflation, of course, has had a great deal of impact on spiraling premiums, but even so, rates generally are established on some kind of cost versus benefit ratio. It makes sense that workers compensation, general liability and other kinds of coverage will cost more, if the insurance carriers must pay out large amounts of money.

Even with these considerations, however, insurance rates cannot be established in an arbitrary or discriminatory manner. Under Michigan law, there has to be financial justification.

Michigan law also provides a process through which an individual, company or community can challenge insurance rates which they feel are excessive, arbitrary or discriminatory. Although that process is seldom used, it provides for the orderly appeal through the Michigan Insurance Commissioner.

The first step is for the person, company or municipality to complain to the commissioner, citing the specific reasons that the insurance rates are unfair or discriminatory.

If the commissioner agrees that the complaining party seems to have valid arguments, a hearing is scheduled within 30 days. The complaining party, as well as all insurers and rating organizations involved, must be given at least 10 days notice of the hearing.

During that hearing, both sides and all interested parties can argue their respective sides, after which the commissioner makes a decision.

If the commissioner concludes that the insurance rates are set fairly and within the bounds of sound economic reasoning, the rates remain in effect.

If the commissioner agrees that the insurance rates have not been established according to law, the commissioner will issue an order specifying that they are out of line and setting a date for terminating those rates. Copies of that order must be sent to all affected parties.

The important point is that you, the Michigan resident, can challenge insurance rates you feel are too high.

Any person wanting to challenge the insurance rates for a specific area can contact the Insurance Commissioner by writing to the Michigan Insurance Bureau, 1048 Pierpont, (or P.O. Box 30220) Lansing 48909.

Rep. Ford elected head of subpanel on higher education

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) has been re-elected chairman of the Postsecondary Education Subcommittee by members of the full Committee on Education and Labor.

Congressman Ford, who has headed the subcommittee for the past two years, pointed out that its jurisdiction has been broadly expanded as part of a committee reorganization.

The Postsecondary Subcommittee now will handle all matters dealing with the arts and humanities, including library services and construction, the Museum Services Institute and the National Endowment for the Arts and the Humanities.

It still retains its basic jurisdiction over programs offering assistance to students attending the nation's more than 8,000 colleges and universities. These programs totaled nearly $6 billion during the last fiscal year.

"One of our major tasks this year will be the reauthorization of the Higher Education Act," Congressman Ford said. "We are planning a series of hearings beginning next month and already have invited Joseph Califano, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, to be our first witness."

Congressman Ford, now in his eighth term as representative of Michigan's 15th Congressional District, has served on the Education and Labor Committee ever since his first election. In 1976 and 1977, he was chairman of the Subcommittee on Agricultural Labor.

In addition to his responsibilities on the Education and Labor Committee, Congressman Ford is a ranking member of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee; serves on the Democratic Policy and Steering Committee; works with the House leadership as a National Whip at Large, and is a member of the White House Conference on Libraries.

"HOW DO I
PRE-PLAN
A FUNERAL?"

HAROLD REDISKE JR.

First, discuss your wishes with us or any of the other fine funeral homes in the area. We will talk about your preferences as to religious services, the minister, selection of music, readings from scripture, and flowers. Costs for caskets, fixed and optional funeral services, and cemetery fees will also be covered.

Second, a completed pre-arrangement document will be provided. In it, all of your wishes and costs will be recorded. Your copy should be kept in a safe place and/or given to your executor, friend or relative. There are no costs or obligations for preparing this.

Third may be pre-financing. This is optional and at your discretion. After we record your wishes, it can be arranged in several ways: (1) pre-payment in full; (2) partial payment and provision made for installment payments; and (3) partial pay with balance to be paid by insurance, Social Security, Veterans Administration, etc.

Pre-planning is sensible and realistic. It can be done without stress or grief. It provides great "peace of mind" in knowing that an unpleasant, yet necessary, task has been completed in advance, thereby sparing your loved-ones a difficult task later on.

ARE YOU AWARE

Thy Word is True from the Beginning: and everyone of the Righteous Judgments endureth
Forever. Psalm 119:160.

What is right, what is wrong? It seems to depend on to whom you are listening, since someone has to be wrong, and in many cases, both sides. With this fact in mind, we cannot afford to take chances, and that leaves us only one way out, for ourselves and our children.

DEUTERONOMY 6:5—Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength. 6:6—These commandments that I give you today are to be upon your hearts. 6:7—Impress them on your children. Talk about them when you sit at home and when you walk along the road, when you lie down and when you get up. 6:8—Tie them as symbols on your hands and bind them on your foreheads. 6:9—Write them on the doorframes of your houses and on your gates.

PSALM 119:130—The entrance of your word gives light; it gives understanding to the simple.

If God's word gives understanding to the simple, then we are left without an excuse for not reading God's word. Prayerful study will bring great peace to your life. It can also bring sharp criticism of personal conduct or way of life, but when we bring our lives into line with what we learn from God's word, it becomes the guide book for fulfilled family life as well as the completion of our individual lives.

"Dear friends, as always, we urge you to read and study God's word. Remember, you are welcome to come and study or worship with us regardless of race or church background."

DENNIS STEPHENSON

Dennis Stephenson, DC, has joined the staff of the Ribley Chiropractic Life Center, P.C., located on Huron River Drive in Flat Rock. As a child, Dr. Stephenson suffered with asthma and acute bronchitis until becoming a patient of Dr. Ribley's at the age of 12. His health improved so dramatically as a patient, that he returned as a chiropractor after graduation from Palmer College of Chiropractic in Davenport, Iowa. Dr. Stephenson interned at the Ribley Chiropractic Life Center for a year before becoming an associate. As a result of his full-time services, the office now is open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. six days a week.

A special 2-hour program entitled "White-Tailed Deer and Other Furry Creatures" will be held at the nature center of Kensington Metropark near Milford on March 4 at 10 a.m.

Join naturalist Dave Moilanen to look at some of our furry friends such as deer, raccoons, and squirrels. The program includes a walk along the nature trails. Participants should dress for the weather. Advanced registration is required.

Vehicle entry permits are required. For information or registration contact the nature center at Kensington Metropark at 685-1561 (Milford).

Opening the Town Hall '79 series sponsored by the YWCA of Western Wayne County will be nationally known author, psychic and columnist Jeane Dixon, who will speak at Fairlane Manor in Dearborn on March 7. Her topic will be "Looking through the Spiritual Heart of America to the Future of the Universe." A reception, with a cash bar, will precede the luncheon and lecture. Tickets for the event are $10 per person and reservations can be made for parties of 10, by contacting the YWCA at 561-4110. Enthusiastically promoting the event are (from the left) are Joyce Palmer, Carol Steiner with 2-year-old Phillip, and Sue Kemp, the ladies all of the Romulus Y-group. — ANP photo.

GM offers speakers bureau

During recent years, General Motors Plant City has been actively engaged in a Speaker's Bureau.

Made up of personnel from the Hydra-matic, Assembly, Parts and Air Transport, the Speaker's Bureau provides timely talks on corrosion, highway traffic safety, economics, transportation and the energy crisis.

Speakers from Hydra-matic include Robert E. Annis, product engineering; Richard A. Yutendale, training, development and employee benefits, and Patricia K. Hawkins, public relations; from General Motors Parts Division, Darrel Manning, material control, and Raymond T. Deegan, material control; from General Motors Air Transport, Michael M. Lypka, administrative services, and Jack A. Flory, aircraft ground operations; from General Motors Assembly Division, George Francis, personnel director, and Gary Boszak, plant engineering.

Speakers are available without charge to civic, service, fraternal or school organization meetings, Scout troops, church groups, women's clubs and other organizations.

Requests for GM Speakers may be directed to Pat Hawkins, public relations department, Hydra-matic Division, by letter or by calling 485-5100.

Sunday gasoline sale ban would be hardship statewide

A ban, which federal officials have urged on Sunday gasoline sales, would not save enough fuel to justify the hardships such a step would impose on vacationing motorists and the state's tourism industry, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"The federal government should adopt and promote a voluntary fuel conservation program as the first step to reduce oil used by the motorist," said Auto Club President Richard R. Dann. "Voluntary programs allow the reduction of fuel use in ways best suited to each motorist's personal needs."

"Our 'Gas Watchers' program in 1973-74 showed that motorists who drive conservatively, car pool, maintain vehicles and observe the 55 mile per hour limit can make five gallons of gasoline work like six, cutting gas consumption by 16 percent," he said. "That would eliminate need for mandatory gasoline conservation measures since President Carter says strenuous action would not have to be taken unless the U.S. gas shortage caused by Iran exceeds 5 percent."

"Vacation trips in Michigan account for only 2.5 percent of the gasoline used each year, and eliminating Sunday gas sales would cripple a $4.87-billion industry," which is this state's second largest, Dann said. "Closing gas stations on Sunday would not achieve its objective since 85 percent of all car trips cover 15 miles or less, and the average motorist near home can obtain all the fuel needed for Sunday on Saturday," Dann added. "However," he said, "It would cripple long-distance vacation travel."

He noted that two persons car pooling to work daily would save 25 percent of the fuel used weekly by each person. The successful promotion of car pooling would eliminate the need to close stations on Sunday or any other day of the week.

VA lifts claims curbs

Veterans who want help in pressing claims for veterans benefits now have a wider range of free services as a result of a new Veterans Administration policy.

For the first time in 32 years, VA has opened the doors to claims representatives of organizations not chartered by Congress.

Under new rules adopted by VA Administrator Max Cleland, a major barrier has been removed that effectively limited VA accreditation to 12 chartered national organizations and 14 other groups with long-established positions in representing veterans.

Cleland emphasized that veterans who want to deal directly with VA benefits counselors are welcomed.

"VA benefits counselors are obligated to represent a veteran's best interests in processing his claims," Cleland said. "But the new policies open the doors for more groups, both large and small, to represent veterans in the preparation, presentation and prosecution of claims for benefits."

"Any organization that can demonstrate a substantial service commitment to veterans will be welcomed by VA."

Two additional organizations, the Polish Legion of American Veterans, USA, and Swords to Plowshares, have been accredited under the policies adopted in October.

The whims of 'Big Brother'

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

If you have ever had occasion to wonder just where your federal government's priorities lie, wonder no more.

While members of society are murdering, mugging and raping one another with relative impunity, a Lincoln Park man who violated a minor federal tax law has been sent to the "big house" for two months.

And what was the terrible crime that 33-year-old John F. Reeves committed? He claimed 99 exemptions on his W-4 federal income tax withholding statement.

At a time when the judicial system of this country finds itself in the midst of an epidemic of "no backboneitis," it is interesting to find that the federal court is able to muster the necessary clout to deal with crime, when the criminal is someone with the unmitigated gall to fool with "big brother."

The misdemeanor to which Reeves pleaded guilty was avoiding the normal withholding deductions which "uncle" collects monthly from Reeves' boss. And for that arrogant disregard of the "Potomac River Scrolls," Reeves was sentenced to two months in the slammer. Two months away from his job, two months away from his family and two months less income to declare on his federal income tax form.

In addition to the prison sentence, Federal Judge Robert E. DeMascio also added four months probation and a $500 fine.

DeMascio's decision forces one to question our system of justice.

A couple years back, the Michigan Education Association (MEA), representing Detroit's teachers, ignored a court injunction and refused to order its members back to work during a strike.

The court responded to that arrogant disregard of the system by imposing a daily fine. Teachers still refused to return to work. Some weeks later, when the strike was settled to the satisfaction of the teachers, the accumulated fines were dismissed by the court.

Last fall when Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson was stumping for mandatory sentencing of convicted criminals, he recited at least 10 examples of the laxness of the judicial system in insuring the safety of the public by returning known criminals to the streets on bail.

While most of those examples involved offenses considerably more important than Reeves' 99 exemptions, the criminals involved were freed by the courts to roam the streets and terrorize the community.

At a time when a murderer is sentenced to life, serves a maximum of 20 years and usually is out on parole before that, and indeed, when many who kill, never ever see the inside of prison, it is questionable at best to see a man sentenced to prison for two months and risk losing his very livelihood just for listing 99 exemptions on his withholding form.

It would, of course, be a different matter entirely, if Reeves had been convicted of beating "uncle" out of his due, but in Reeves' case, even the prosecuting attorney conceded that he had always paid his proper taxes.

So if you are wondering where your government's priorities lie, wonder no more. They lie with teaching the average working taxpayer that he is vulnerable to the whims of "Big Brother."

They apparently do not lie with either justice or protecting society.

Editorial opinions

Van Buren seven

The third, and probably, last round in the Van Buren struggle to control its own destiny will shortly begin, now that trustees have once again refused to grant necessary permits for the development of a mobile home park in that community.

On Monday evening, the trustees once again unanimously voted to deny the requested permits which would allow the mobile home park to connect to the Ypsilanti sewer system.

In spite of the board's pleadings that the community had not been given its day in court, Circuit Court Judge Charles Kaufman, ordered the entire board jailed for contempt last Dec. 28.

At stake in the case is the future health of Belleville Lake, and the question of the inherent right of a community to protect itself from potentially damaging developments.

Also at stake is the so far unanswered question of whether a court can order a community to violate its own ordinances and policy without due process and full disclosure of the facts.

It is unlikely that the Van Buren officials will be able to hold off the long arm of the court. It is equally unlikely that circuit court will be willing to concede that a mistake has been made in the case.

While Judge Kaufman was correct in his final decision, so were the Van Buren township officials who refused to comply with that decision.

And when a situation develops where both sides of an argument are right, the overriding concern must then be placed on the question of which course will serve the best public interest.

We think the Van Buren trustees are correct in trying to protect the thousands of people who make their homes in the community. We think that Judge Kaufman is wrong in placing the rights of two developers, only seeking profit, above the general welfare of the entire community.

VB Family Day

Two weeks ago, Van Buren Township Trustee, Tom Welty, proposed to the township board that a 'Van Buren Family Day' be held in July.

The township board unanimously supported Welty's proposal, and should he gain enough support from the citizens of the community for his idea, Van Buren will certainly benefit.

Too often we all fall into the trap of negativism. We often criticize without offering a plan. We confront without alternatives, and we complain without volunteering.

We think that Welty's plan provides the community with a real opportunity to involve itself in a worthwhile community project that, if nothing else, will help promote a feeling of identity for the residents of Van Buren.

In fact, should we be asked, we undoubtedly would be interested in some minor role in the Van Buren Family Day ourselves.

No doubt, Van Buren's many clubs and organizations will get behind the community and Welty in his attempt to replace talk with action.

VB sign ordinance

If Van Buren Trustee Tom Welty has his way, candidates for office who so freely litter the country-side with their signs, will have to pick up those signs, or pay the township to pick them up. We like Welty's idea.

Too often, campaigns for public offices are almost too much for the average citizens to bear. And compounding that problem is the ever present reminder of past campaigns, in the form of thousands of old campaign posters nailed on anything that didn't move out of the way fast enough.

Many of our neighborhood's trees bear the grim reminders of past elections in the form of tattered remnants or ugly nails which do little for the tree's well-being.

In addition to the trees, utility polls, empty fields, abandoned homes, and billboards blare the usually distorted message of long-gone politicians who were the people's choice.

While the best and most permanent solution for the problem would be to ban the signs entirely, as some neighboring communities have done, that approach smacks a little of 'big brother' and is opposed by many who feel that, if nothing else, the signs at least identify for the uninvolved citizen, who is running for what and why.

Among the political observers of this area, it is generally conceded that the signs which spring up every year at election time, do little to affect the outcome of the election, but none of the candidates want to risk being the first to try the no-sign route lest they prove that assumption in error.

Much like the dedicated poll workers who stand for hours in the cold passing out literature supporting their candidate at the polls, it is better to be safe than sorry. For without them, who would ever know for sure if a victory could have been gained by their use.

While we support Welty's sign ordinance proposal, it must go without saying that without proper enforcement, no ordinance is worth the paper it is written on.

And unless the community's leaders are ready to commit themselves to the task, considering that many of the signs are their own, nothing can be expected to come of it.

Health Beat

The mastery of miscommunication

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

If you will recall reading your history books in high school or college, you will remember that one mark of a civilized society is the fact that the members of that society have a language in which they can communicate.

And that's what we want to talk about today: language and its effects on our society.

For instance, my wife recently received from the Wayne County Jury Commission, a form which she had to complete and mail back to the Commission. Evidently, she will be asked to serve on a jury trial.

Nothing unusual about a citizen being asked to serve as a jurist. That's true. What we both found curious, however, was the language used on the form.

It's our position that language ought to be somewhat precise. And properly used, such is generally the case. But, consider just a couple of the questions asked of prospective jurors.

First, we found the question, "Have you any defects in your vision?" Now think about that seemingly innocuous question. If you think hard enough, you will shortly understand that you don't really understand what is being asked.

If that question means you can't wear eye glasses corrected to 20-20, then Donna would have to say that she indeed has a vision defect. In my case, and I too about one year ago had to fill out the same form when I was called to jury duty, I didn't answer that I wear reading glasses; i.e., the bottoms of my glasses have a corrective lens while the tops are plain glass.

Frankly, I answered that question "No." I hope this confession doesn't result in my landing in jail. But, I simply answered the question as best I could within the perimeters I established for myself because those responsible for printing the form took too much for granted.

Here's another example of a lack of precision. The question was, "Do you have any physical infirmities?" Now that can't mean are you blind, because I think blindness would be covered in question on vision defects. So what does it mean?

Does it mean that you are infirm if you have one finger amputated or if you, have arthritis and take a daily medication? Now the person who wrote that question no doubt knew exactly what he or she had in mind. Alas, most respondents are not mind readers. Hence, answering that question can be a chore.

All of us, and that would include the one sitting at this typewriter, on a daily basis use words and phrases which are distinguished only by their lack of clear meaning.

I wonder why we do those things. Are we simply lazy, are we honestly ignorant, or are we in such a bloody hurry these days that we don't take the time to think things out before we utter or write our words or phrases?

I suspect that it's a combination of those three reasons and probably a few more I've not yet thought about or put down on paper.

I love words, and enjoy myself when I'm able to learn the derivation of commonly used words. Most people use the word sincere as a pretty active part of their linguistic arsenal. Do you know where we got that noble word?

Centuries ago, in ancient Rome, history records that building projects went on much like they do today. In fact, some Roman structures still stand as testimony to ingenious engineering and construction techniques.

Now it seems that in those days, there at times appeared on the scene a builder who was perhaps a little less than honest. Or at any rate, was not adverse to cutting a corner or two to increase his profit margin. Many of the Roman structures were built with gigantic pillars as both decorative and functional uses.

You can easily understand that a tall column which was hollow would look like a solid-core column but would not have the structural integrity of the later.

Now for our word sincere. In Latin, sine means 'without' and cera means 'wax'. Thus, if a purchaser bought a column which was sine cera, the purchaser knew that he was the owner of a solid-core structure which would stand for centuries.

However, if the column was not sine cera, and hence was hollow and plugged with wax, the purchaser knew that he had potential trouble on his hands.

That is, he knew if the builder told him that the column was not sine cera. From that, then, it becomes obvious that sincere means pure or unadulterated, honest or real or genuine.

And that's the way we all ought to communicate with each other; honestly without any baloney separating the communicants.

My columns, I hope, are sine cera.

CETA — a cruel disappointment

By RICHARD L. LESHER

As a taxpayer, do you know what ballet, street theater, pottery, information about gay people, basketball, advocacy of communism and nude body sculpting workshops all have in common? Probably not, but you should. For each one, and many others like them, have been legitimate tax-supported activities within the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, or CETA—the federal government's largest employment program.

Congress became so incensed with these activities and other abuses that it insisted CETA begin to devote a greater share of its budget to the training of hardcore unemployed for real jobs in the private sector. Unfortunately, the President is now under pressure to keep the CETA budget for so-called public service jobs at a very high level. I believe that would be a mistake. To understand, let me explain why CETA has failed so badly.

Rather than provide the poor with temporary work and the training needed for eventual productive jobs, many local governments have used CETA money to pay for old jobs previously funded by local taxes.

One city is so "hooked" that up to 30 percent of its employees are on the CETA payroll. By some estimates, CETA subsidizes four existing jobs for each new job it creates. So it is usually the educated with political influence, rather than the truly needy, who are getting most of the jobs.

With control of CETA funding so dependent on the whims of local politicians, the program now resembles an assortment of "goodies" regularly doled out as political patronage. Abuses are commonplace, and many national publications—in particular Readers Digest in August, 1978—have begun to expose the waste and fraud.

In Buffalo, millions of dollars were mismanaged because of sloppy auditing, payments to ineligible participants and illegal political activity.

In New York, someone took a bite out of the Big Apple when $500,000 in "expenses" mysteriously disappeared from one summer youth program. In Washington, D.C., where big government is the home team, they've really learned how to play the game.

The D.C. City Council amassed one of the largest staffs in the country, actually paying 56 of its 126 employees with CETA funds. Poor people were still hoping for work in Baltimore, while CETA jobs were found for the wife of a state supreme court judge, the daughter of a United States Court of Appeals judge, as well as the sons of a vice president of a large brewing company, a city public works superintendent, and a member of the Maryland House of Delegates. Had enough?

There's more, much more, but the key point is: CETA has been a cruel disappointment for the poor whose dreams of acquiring training skills, productive jobs and a better life are being frustrated; for the taxpayers whose money is being squandered, and for our economy where billions of dollars are being diverted from tax producing, growth-oriented jobs, to tax consuming activities which can only lead to higher inflation.

Congress was right when it recognized CETA must begin preparing people for the world of work, instead of paying them not to work. For that to happen, proposals like the Private Sector Initiative Program, (PSIP,) to increase business involvement in CETA must be sharply upgraded.

This program establishes local industry councils, composed of business and labor representatives, to coordinate the training and eventual employment of the hardcore unemployed. The councils should grant top priority to on-the-job training which results in higher rates of employment retention. CETA has almost totally neglected this approach.

The PSIP effort will be even more effective if it is properly coordinated with the work of community-based organizations, which are attuned to the needs of local areas. One such community group is OIC — Opportunities Industrialization Centers — which has combined the philosophy of self-help with acquired skills and positive work attitudes to fashion many successful training programs.

In the name of compassion, CETA's subsidized jobs program has demeaned individuals with hand out work. Businessmen and women know what real compassion is all about — helping people to help themselves. That's why I want to urge them to exercise leadership, get involved in the PSIP program, and turn CETA around.

Clearly, business people are the only ones who can. And if they do, look what will have been gained. People now living without hope will have an opportunity to make it, to be somebody, to have character, dignity, and to be self-supporting and free.

That's a goal worth working for.

Reflections

Badge of Courage

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

Uncle Gunnar, who lives with us, is escalating towards the seventy mark but somehow it hasn't penetrated that he might be termed an elderly gentleman.

On Wednesday evening he eats a light lunch, tucks his ears under the flaps of his hat, and walks up to the bowling alley swinging his bowling ball with the natural swing of his arms, where he bowls with a league.

At exactly 9 p.m. on the other evenings he walks downstairs, checks all three of the clocks with his wristwatch, peers out of the door to see how the weather is, and then walks up to the donut shop for a cup of steaming coffee and a donut. If the weather is good, he is happy. If the weather is lousy, he is still happy.

During the day he takes care of us. He trots up and downstairs throwing clothes into the laundry, makes our beds, cleans up after us and is always ready to fill the kid's coffers whenever they need a buck, and can't get it from Pop or Mom.

When Uncle Gunnar walks by someone he asks, "Want anything?" and even though it is asked fifty times in one half hour, it is just an empty question. No matter what one might want, he would attempt to fulfill the want.

Uncle Gunnar is sweet, selfless and gentle, with two helping hands always sticking out of his shirtsleeves.

And yet Uncle Gunnar is slipping through the house with an ugly bruise slashed across the back of his neck, and a huge, black and blue marking across one side of his face, from his almost sightless eyes to the tip of his nose. For the gentle, slight old man was the victim of a senseless mugging . . . at the bowling alley.

In his own words he had finished bowling and had gone up to the "wash room where I was going about tending to my own business.

"I had seen these two young men in there, but I didn't pay any attention. All of a sudden, WHOP across the back of my neck. One of them had done a Karate chop on me. I turned around and said, 'what the hell is going on?' and a first caught me in the fact, knocking off the glasses. Well, that's when I got mad. I started yelling at them . . . and they just took off."

What he didn't say, of course, is that the sight of a skinny 70 year old, whose hairs goes wild when his temper flares and whose eyes have a way of darting from under bushy white brows in a disconcerting way, and who, because he is gentle and kind and rarely gets angry, is almost inarticulate in anger, and appears in a frenzy trying to get out the words he wants, was like a ghostly apparition and scared the tough guys right out of that washroom.

Being the kind of person he is, Uncle Gunnar looked for his glasses and checked them for breakages before he followed his assailants down the stairs. But they were out and away, and somewhere out on the cold, dark street and suffering and must have been suffering overpowering overpowering humiliation. Not only did they get no money, but they got scared away by a slight, gentle, white haired almost 70 old gentleman.

And Uncle Gunnar is wearing his bruises with honor, for his nephews and nieces and his grand nephews and nieces are heaping him with praise, and one of his little grandnephews wants to charge all the kids on the street a buck to see "Uncle Gunnar's bruise!"

Coping with juvenile crime

By FOREST N. SHUMWAY
President
The Signal Companies, Inc.
Beverly Hills, Calif.

The overwhelming approval of Proposition 13 by California voters, as well as the spread throughout the country of taxpayer resentment against wasteful government spending, have been widely interpreted as signs that Americans are pulling back from social responsibility.

In my view, that is a gross misreading of the public mood; it certainly misses the mark as an assessment of the sentiment of American business.

Far from recoiling from active involvement in the solution of community problems, corporate leadership is pushing forward with a new sense of urgency and commitment in recognizing that a healthy society is imperative to the health of even the best-managed enterprise.

Industry's involvement takes myriad forms — job training for the hardcore unemployed through such volunteer instrumentalities as the national Alliance of Businessmen; community improvement programs of breathtaking range in such fields as health, housing and education, and a host of innovative projects to combat drug abuse and crime.

Praiseworthy as all these undertakings have been, it is clear that we are still falling far short of adequate answers to the problem that probably bothers citizens most: how do we cope with the enveloping tide of senseless violence by teenage lawbreakers?

Our streets and neighborhoods are being turned into places of fear by youths who rob, rape and slay, often without provocation or remorse. Nearly half of those arrested for serious crimes are under 18 years old.

Juvenile crimes of violence have tripled since 1960. Worst of all, the risk is dismayingly high that these young offenders will become hardened criminals, lifelong enemies of community safety and security.

I believe that we in positions of responsibility in business have to take a few risks in the hope that we can help reverse this insidious trend. That is why The Signal Companies is underwriting the presentation by television stations in this city and many others during the week of March 5 of what is undoubtedly the starkest, most chilling documentary about juvenile crime ever shown for the home screen.

Filmed at Rahway State Prison in New Jersey, it depicts the turn-around in attitude experienced by a group of street-wise young hoodlums after a half-dozen convicts serving life sentences have driven home to them the harsh realities of penitentiary existence.

The inmates accomplish this through use of language aptly described by a reviewer for Variety as "strong enough to bring a blush to the cheeks of the Symphonies Liberation Army."

The brutality of the insight they got in their brief stay inside prison walls scared the crime out of the youthful law-breakers, each of whom had swaggered into Rahway sneeringly defiant. But the very qualities that made the impact of the program so arresting for youngsters compelled to contemplate unblinkingly the hell to which they might condemn themselves could also make it dubious television fare to thrust upon hundreds of thousands of decent, law-abiding families all over the United States under the auspices of our company.

I have to confess that some of my associates were appalled at the idea of our sponsoring this documentary. I was warned that many viewers would be revolted by the foul language and the explicit descriptions the program gives of the degradation that awaits young inmates in an adult prison. All the company could reap from its sponsorship, I was told by my associates whose sound judgment I had every reason to respect, was an acid harvest of reproaches and ill will for polluting the air waves.

Despite the earnestness of these arguments, my own feeling remained resolute: the issue was too momentous to duck.

The nation has struck out in every past assault on juvenile crime. The futility of traditional methods of retribution or rehabilitation imperils the fabric of urban life.

Here, however modest its scope thus far, is an approach that seems to work. The best way to insure it a wider test is by letting Americans everywhere know how much good is being accomplished by a little band of convicted murderers and thieves, who are acting on their own to save lives after ruining their own because they learned too late the shattering price of crime to its perpetrators.

To attempt to pretty up the tape by "bleeping" its rougher passages would destroy its effectiveness. I think the American people can take it, and I am delighted to have had this view enthusiastically endorsed by every governor, mayor and police chief who has seen the film in advance.

For me, there is only one measure of the worth of this program. It was set forth with eloquent directness in the remark of one chastened young delinquent, all his bravado gone as he left Rahway: "I think it will change my life." I hope and believe that a lot of lost youngsters will feel that way after watching "Scared Straight!" We'll all be winners if they do.

On the Brighter Side

'King Kong' carnation

By JIM BRADLEY

The news deadline had passed and I sat at my desk last Wednesday trying to relax a bit after the last story had been turned in for that week's edition.

In the early afternoon, Brenda Winfrey, one of our friendly southern ladies in classified advertising, approached my desk.

"Mr. Bradley, this is for you." Glancing up from my reading material, I noticed a beautifully wrapped flower in her hands. "The delivery man said these are for Jim Bradley and I thought he was joking," she explained. "He repeated that they were for you and here they are."

As she handed me the large package wrapped in crinkly white paper, I was speechless (for a change). She turned and started to walk away. "Wait," I said eagerly, "stay here and watch while I open it."

I was pleasantly shocked to receive the present and wanted someone there to help share in the fun. "I thought they were for one of the girls when the delivery man brought them," Brenda explained as I delicately ripped off the wrapping paper.

Inside the white, crinkled paper was a beautiful long-stemmed red carnation flower in a beautiful sculptured bud vase. I was a bit nervous as I opened the card attached to the flowers that were sent from a local flower shop.

In scribbled handwriting were the words, "To Jim,

Should a lady send a flower to a gentleman? Why not?" It was hard to make out the name of the sender through the masculine-looking scribble.

I felt definitely that a lady had sent the beautiful flower, but her handwriting resembled that of King Kong. Nevertheless, I tingled inside with excitement and set the flower on top of the paneled wall by my desk. Many passersby noticed the bright red carnation with green plant leaves adorning it.

"Where'd you get the pretty flower?" many asked as they strolled past.

I honestly didn't know at the time and I hated to say something like "King Kong's friend." That might sound a trifle ungrateful. And, being a little on the mischievous side, I wanted to maintain my mystique — so I acted innocent.

"One of my female admirers sent it," I said, trying my best to give an aura of calm assurance.

"Just wait till Pansy, your wife, hears that a woman sent you a flower. You won't dare go home tonight," chirped one of the women passing through the editorial department.

I decided to leave the red carnation at work that night. It really brightened up the office and besides, Pansy REALLY WOULD understand, wouldn't she? (Certainly she wouldn't be jealous of flowers sent with King Kongian penmanship on a card, I tried to assure myself.)

Early the next morning, the mystery of the masculine-looking handwriting was explained. With the scent of the red carnation still filling the air around my desk, I picked up the jangling phone.

A definitely-feminine voice on the other end of the line asked, "Did you get the flower I sent you yesterday?" Certainly this sultry-voiced siren was not even a distant relative of King Kong. And I certainly wasn't going to embarrass her by asking how she got the giant gorilla's handwriting on the card.

But still, I had to know.

She answered the mystery before I even had to ask her. She said she sent the flower to say "Thank You" in a special way for the nice story I wrote about her sometime before. "I phoned in the order and some guy took the call and wrote my message for me on the flower card."

"I wondered," I admitted. "You certainly would edge King Kong in any penmanship contest — and your voice is a lot more sultry than his, too."

I thought her sending me a red carnation to say "Thank You" was a real touch of class. It's the first time a lady has ever sent me a flower.

Oh, I got a package of Dentyne gum from the Homecoming Queen and her court at a local high school one year for doing a story on them. And one of the prettiest girls personally brought a beautiful "Thank You" note to my office and hand-delivered it.

I've also received large boxes of strawberries, a beautiful Poinsettia plant, certificates of appreciation, a free pass to play nine holes of golf (It was for 2 a.m. on a Monday morning.), ribbons and several other cherished items that I still have filed away.

But nothing ever quite gave me a "tingle" like this beautiful red carnation from a female admirer (and such an attractive one, too!) (You haven't read this far have you, Pansy?).

Speaking of carnations, what would this country be called if everyone drove a pink automobile? It would be called: "A pink car-nation."

Well, I finally did take my red carnation (the flower) home to Pansy (my wife) and she was just as excited about it as I was. At least I think she was. However, when she read the heavy handwriting, she commented, "Your lady friend writes similar to King Kong, are you sure they're not related?"

"Oh, I'm positive they're not related, she's a beautiful blond who sent me the flower and King Kong was a brunette," I cracked.

I won't say that made Pansy mad. But the last time our neighbors saw her, she was standing on our house roof holding me above her head and looking very much like King Kong.

13 local wrestlers advance to state championship

For 13 local wrestlers it comes down to one more tournament.

The 13 - six of whom earned regional gold crowns - will be competing over the weekend in the state finals, the last stop of the campaign.

Among those who will make the trip to Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo for the Class A championships are Belleville's Joe Justin and Rick Winekoff, along with Romulus' Darren Cline, Westland John Glenn's Bill Meyer, Plymouth Salem's Jim Schultz and teammate Mark Ross - they won gold medals at regional Class A tournaments.

Dearborn Heights Robichaud's

John Lucas, a regional Class B champ, will head for Mt. Pleasant and Central Michigan University for the state Class B finals.

The area also received excellent performances at the regionals from Wayne Memorial's Dave Lusk and Joe Glass who finished third and fourth in the 165 and 155 pound classes respectively at the Hazel Park Regional.

Glenn will also take 191-pounder Bennett Clemons who finished third at the regionals.

Belleville has the largest local delegation at the state level. Coach Gerald Malacek had three other qualifiers including Steve Cook (191) who was runner-up, Carl Winekoff, who was third best at 145 and Scott Harsch, a fourth place finisher at 126.

Salem's Jeff Brown will get a shot at the state title after finishing third at 155.

Justin won the regional title at 119 by beating veteran Dave Drouillard of Dearborn Heights Annapolis in the finals via a 5:45 pin, while Rick Winekoff ran up against Ypsilanti's David Jones and claimed a 3-0 decision for the crown at 155. Schultz disposed of Ypsi's Kirk Waggonlander 8-3 putting his claim to the 98-pound championship and Ross dumped Farmington Harrison's Pat Balajac, 5-1, in the 126 competition.

Ypsilanti claimed the Walled Lake Western Regional team title with a total of 95½ points. A close second was Belleville with 88, while Plymouth Salem was fourth (50½).

Meyer had to work overtime to get his gold medal at Hazel Park. He fought off a stubborn Walled Lake 155-pounder, Ron Perry, to win 1-0 in the extra period.

Cline is one of the best looking wrestlers to come out of Romulus since the Smith brothers - Brad won the state championship. The Romulus heavyweight knocked off Temperance Bedford's Bob Warnke in 1:44 to produce 24 of the Eagles' points. That gave Romulus a tie for 12th place with Wayne Memorial.

Temperance ruled the 31-team tournament at Hazel Park where John Glenn finished a solid eighth with 30 points.

The Sports Meridian

College scouts, prep stars

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Picture the University of Michigan. It is the fall of 1972. The football season is just about to get underway and some of my colleagues are huddled in a corner of the press box.

The sports writers are discussing a story about how "Minnesota stole Simons from under Michigan's nose."

The main character in that story is Keith Simons, an unheralded then 6-2, 240-pound Belleville High griddier who didn't make any of the coveted all-state teams.

Keith was overlooked by everyone, except, of course, the local newspaper.

And when Simons signed with the Gophers it wasn't a surprise to many in these parts. It wasn't a surprise either that he developed into one of the best defensive tackles in the Big 10. In fact, Keith broke into Minnesota's starting lineup as a freshman and didn't give up the job for the next four years.

Now, flip the calendar to the year 1979. It is Sunday, Feb. 25 around 1:30 p.m. and sitting in the hot seat is a young and good-looking athlete from New Boston Huron.

He's 18-year-old Randy Pichan, who has quarterbacked New Boston Huron's football team for the past two years and is also using his 6-4, 190-pound physique as a center on the Chiefs' cage team.

Randy, like a score of other local athletes, has signed a letter of intent which will provide him with an athletic scholarship. In Randy's case, his signature will enable him to attend Grand Valley State in Allendale, Michigan on a "full ride."

"I was really impressed with the environment around Grand Valley," the young Pichan said, "and the coach impressed me with his sincerity."

Grand Valley has won the last two versions of the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Conference football championship and, under the guidance of head coach Jim Harkema, reached the national playoffs in the NAIA I Division, losing to Elon College 13-7 in the semi-final round.

Genetically, Pichan has "quarterback blood" in his line. His older brother, Ron, quarterbacked Hillsdale (and that's where Ron wanted Randy to go) back in the sixties and also played semi-pro ball as a QB for the Pontiac Chiefs and Arrows.

Randy was overlooked by the MAC (Mid-American Conference) schools, but there is no doubt in these parts that MAC and Big 10's loss is definitely Grand Valley's assurance to future domination of the Great Lakes.

Pichan will have at least one former teammate up at Allendale. Gene Reitz, who played football for the Chiefs and a former All-State honorable mention guard in basketball, helped Grand Valley capture the GLIAC's basketball championship.

Reitz is a 5-11, 150-pounder and, though a freshman, broke into the varsity ranks. He's been in seven games and scored 10 points and grabbed seven rebounds.

The Lakers are 20-4 over-all and clinched the GLIAC championship with a 11-2 record.

North '5' is final obstacle

Westland John Glenn stashed away the Northwest Suburban Conference basketball crown last week.

But, before Coach Gordie Davis and his Rockets turn their thoughts to the district playoffs they have one more goal to reach.

Glenn needs a victory Friday night over North Farmington to wrap up a perfect conference season. Though they were undefeated a year ago, the Westlanders played an abbreviated schedule due to Garden City East's late arrival (millage problems) on the scene.

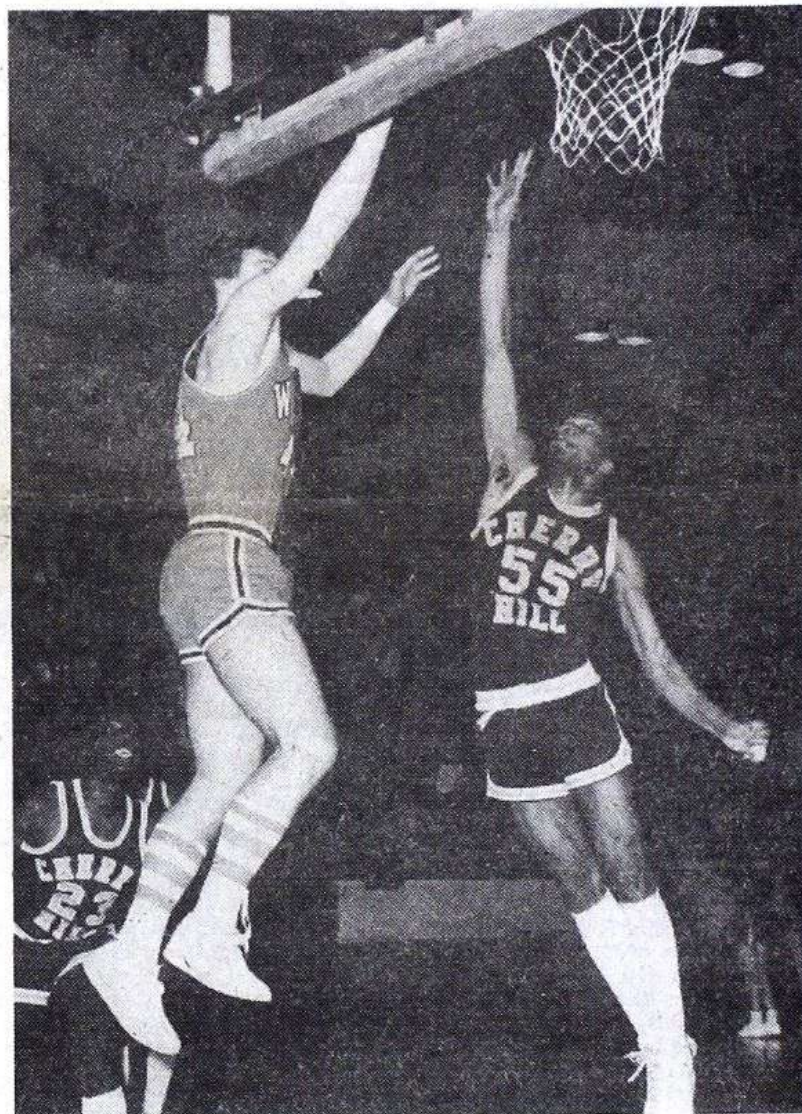

North, picked by most to unseat Glenn as the conference king this year, didn't live up to expectations. In fact, they fell flat.

"But they have been improving," said Davis who teams have won 17 straight in the league over a span of three years. Mark Biehl, who is 6-8, looks good and the other players are rounding into shape.

"North definitely will have the advantage on the boards, so it should be an extremely interesting game," Davis added.

Before a "Parents' Night" crowd, Glenn shook off a pesky Thurston 62-47 for their ninth successive league triumph. The Rockets needed a third period surge to break loose from the Eagles who grabbed a 14-11 lead after the first period but settled for a tie (24-all) at halftime.

Glenn got eight points from Tony Colucci and seven from senior guard Daran Armstrong in the third period to go ahead by six (45-39), then Ralph McKenzie pumped in eight points in the last period as the Rockets outscored their visitors 17-8 to clinch the victory.

Why the West was won

Title-hopeful Garden City West ran up against defending champ Cherry Hill Friday night and lost a 59-53 decision. And one big reason why West surrendered to the invading Spartans was Floyd Simmons seen here blocking Mark Crampton's shot. Simmons was superb in Cherry Hill's 59-53 victory, contributing 20 points and hauling down a handful of rebounds.

Belleville puts pieces together

Just in time for the playoffs, Belleville is putting the cage pieces together. Coach Tom Niemi's Tigers showed that they can overcome adversity by ripping Dearborn Edsel Ford 73-60 to post their sixth Suburban 8

Hewlett crushes Bentley

Rich Hewlett may have signed a letter of intent to play football at University of Michigan, but betcha the Wolverines' cage coach Johnny Orr is as happy as Bo Schembechler. Hewlett, an all-state gridder, pumped in a season high 25 points, had seven assists and picked up five steals to lead the Rocks to a surprisingly easy 79-57 victory over Livonia Bentley.

The first time around Salem was forced to play an overtime period to beat Bentley. Salem, now 10-1, has sole possession and a share of their sixth conference championship. If they stop Belleville Friday night the title will be theirs outright.

S'western to test Romulus

You won't find it on your schedule, but Romulus has one more date before Coach Rod Hanna takes his Eagles south to Temperance Bedford.

Hanna will get a good look at his cagers Friday night when Detroit Southwestern, a traditional cage power, invades the friendly confines of Romulus High.

"Southwestern took No.1 ranked Murray Wright into an overtime before losing to them," said Hanna, "that's how tough they are. They'll be a good test for our kids."

Romulus will head for Bedford next week to compete in the Class A district tournament and the team favored to come away with all the marbles is Ypsilanti.

The Eagles got their running game going and also some excellent defense from Stu Block and Darryl Lewis to turn back Willow Run 63-56 Friday night.

Block held Flyers' Raymond Wilson to one basket while Lewis stopped Jim Ethington who had six points.

"I was very happy with the solid defense we played," said Coach Hanna. "It was a good game to win."

Ahead 15-12 after the initial period, Romulus held a slim 25-24 lead at halftime. Outscoring the Flyers 20-12 in the third period, Romulus held off a late Willow Run surge to wrap up their 14th victory in 18 starts.

Dave Casey is back in form as he scored a career high 24 points, and grabbed nine rebounds. Casey had been sidelined midway through the season because of illness.

John Kersey's 16 points and Darryl Lewis' 13 gave the Eagles a balanced attack.

Friday night also will be "Parents' Night" and if the Eagles want to move up in the ratings where they're presently ranked among the top 10, Southwestern will be an excellent stepping stone.

But the Prospectors' 6-8 senior center LaMar Jackson may have something to say about that.

It's Inkster vs. Rouge again

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

Inkster's destiny is in its own hands.

If the battling Vikings hope to salvage a tie for the Suburban Athletic Conference cage title they'll have to do something they've never done before - beat River Rouge in the Panthers' gym Friday night.

Coach George Thompson, Jr. feels his cagers are reaching their peak after beating a talented Ecorse team, 68-67, in the Red Raiders' gym last Friday night. The hard-fought victory ran Inkster's record to 4-2 in the SAC and left them mathematically in contention to tie for the championship.

"We know Rouge is a very tough ballclub, especially in their own gym, but I'm proud of our boys and I think it will be a battle right down to the wire Friday night," Thompson said.

Even though Ecorse out-rebounded Inkster 54 to 35, the smaller Vikings contested them enough to prevent them from scoring on a number of second attempts, the veteran coach explained. Eric Crouch led with nine caroms, followed by Krafus Walker's eight and seven by Darryl Willis.

Inkster started fast and took a 14-12 first quarter lead over the Red Raiders who had three 6-foot-5 giants in the lineup. The Vikings were outscored 17-16 in the second stanza by the host squad but managed to cling to a 30-29 halftime edge.

Ecorse stepped up its scoring pace with 24 third quarter markers to the Vikings' 20 as the Red Raiders took command, 53-50, after three periods. However, the smaller Inkster quintet battled back to take the final quarter, 18-14, to clinch the victory. Coach Ray Scott of Eastern Michigan University had one of his assistants at the game to scout Inkster's Alvin "Bo" Dukes and he saw plenty. The 5-foot-8 floor general poured in 22 points on six field goals and 10 of 11 from the free throw line.

Dukes was aided immeasurably by Darryl Willis with 16 points, Eric Crouch's 14 and 10 by Krafus Walker as the Vikings hit 24 of 62 shots from the floor to the Red Raiders' 31 of 71.

Ecorse also had four players in double figures. Calvin Warren had 20 points, followed by Ken McPhaul with 15, Bryan Pollard, 11 and Lance Ector with 10.

"We kept our poise in the late minutes of the game at the Ecorse gym with their fans yelling frantically," Thompson said.

Dukes made the key play of the game. With his team trailing, 63-61, in the final frantic minute, "Bo" stole the ball and made the tying basket. He was fouled on the lay-up and converted the free throw for a three-point play and a 64-63 Inkster lead.

When the foul was called on Dukes' basket, Ecorse coach Kenny Jackson ran out on the floor and was nailed with a two-shot technical. Inkster canned both of them to increase its lead to 66-63. Ecorse scored again with 15 seconds left to make it 66-65. Crouch was fouled as the Vikings stalled the ball and made both ends of a 1-and-1 at the line to give Inkster a 3-point margin, 68-65. Inkster let Ecorse score an uncontested basket with one second left for the final margin.

Now Inkster faces River Rouge in the Panthers' gym Friday night in its biggest test of the season - and a chance to tie for the SAC basketball title.

Canton leaves no doubt who's best in Western 6

Playing near-perfect basketball, Plymouth Canton rattled Livonia Churchill Friday night 77-57 to come within one victory of perfection in the Western Six Conference.

The Chiefs earned their first conference championship a week ago and a triumph over Northville Friday night will give them their first undefeated season in the league.

"It is one of our three goals," explained Bell. "We accomplished the first by winning the title, the second was to go undefeated in the league and the third is to fare well in the playoffs."

Canton put Churchill away early as Butch King scored 18 of his game high 24 points in the first half. Ahead 22-8 after eight minutes, and 41-27 at intermission, Canton outscored the Chargers 23-12 in the third period.

Churchill tried a zone against the champs the first half and it just didn't work as King unleashed several long jumpers which found their mark.

"And I felt we did an excellent job penetrating their zone and finding the open man," Bell offered.

Mike Leary and Dan Visser were also in two figures for the winners. Leary's contribution was 15 points, while Visser chipped in 10.

But it was Mike Gollnick's work on the boards that enabled the Chiefs to take control. Gollnick hauled in 14 rebounds and scored eight points. Teammate Rusty Mandle chalked up 14 assists for the evening.

Churchill was led by Dave Krick who had 18 points and Kursten sank 17.

2 Glenn grid stars sign

Two leading players on John Glenn's outstanding 1978 football squad have won scholarships to play on college teams in the state this fall.

Linebacker Dan O'Brien, who was an All-State selection on the Detroit Free Press and News Teams, has signed a letter of intent to play at Central Michigan University. Quarterback Rob Suida, named All-League signal-caller in the rugged Northwest Suburban League, will be going to Ferris State College on a football scholarship.

O'Brien, a 6-1, 205-pound linebacker, anchored the Rocket defensive unit which gave up a record-low 22 points in nine games against strong competition.

The student with a 3.1 grade average, in addition to making All-State, earned All-Area accolades from Associated Newspapers and Observer-Eccentric Newspapers.

"Dan spearheaded a defensive unit that won eight out of nine games and was one I consider second to none in the state last fall," said Chuck Gordon, head football coach at Glenn.

"He is very tough against the

Spartans, Simmons sink GC West, 59-53

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

The showdown between Cherry Hill and Garden City West for the Tri-River basketball crown lived up to its advance billing.

Coach Dick McNally's Spartans overcame foul trouble and a horrendous four-point first quarter to earn a thrilling 59-53 victory Friday before a full-house at West high school to clinch at least a share of its third consecutive Tri-River cage title.

But it wasn't easy. The Tigers, under veteran cage mentor Chris Babler, had a well mapped out game plan and carried the favored Spartans down to the final seven seconds before two free throws clinched it.

Playing before a roaring, jam-packed crowd under West's domed gym, the Spartans pitted their speed and jumping ability against West's taller, sharp-shooting team in the battle of league-leaders who each sported 10-2 conference records.

After a steal and base-line drive gave Cherry Hill an early 4-3 lead, West dominated the rest of the first quarter, racking up 11 consecutive points to take an eye-bulging 14-4 lead. West looked flawless, while the Spartans looked terrible, mainly due to Tiger pressure.

Babler, employing three players 6-3 or more (Pat Dybas, Jeff McCann and Mark Crampton), found the strategy working very well. Those three combined with guards Doug Boston and Gary Rago to outduel Cherry Hill in the first quarter.

However, Cherry Hill clamped on a vice-like, full-court press and ran up a 23-10 second quarter to assume a 27-24 halftime lead. West counter-attacked with a 16-13 third period to deadlock it at 40-all after three periods before a 19-13 final period Spartan margin decided the issue.

Floyd Simmons, who Coach McNally calls one of the finest Class B basketball players in the state, led Cherry Hill with 20 points. His brother, Andy, came off the bench and drilled in 15 points, several on long one-handers, while sophomore point guard Greg Thompson chipped in 10 points in addition to guiding a poised Spartan attack in the final three periods.

West was led by Dybas with 13 points, including 5-of-5 free throws, and Boston added one field goal and a perfect 8-for-8 from the line for 10 points.

Trailing 4-3, West got rolling for 11 straight points. Crampton scored on a feed from Boston, Rago tallied on a breakaway and from the top of the key to make it 9-4. McCann's 6-foot base-line jumper and Dybas' tip-in of a second missed shot plus Rago's free throw, made it 14-4 after one period.

McNally went to a full-court press and turned the game around. Cherry Hill raced to a 23-10 edge of Floyd Simmons' three baskets and 4-of-4 free throws, Andy Simmons' seven points, four by Pierre Hudson and two by Thompson.

West won the third quarter, mainly on its board strength while Floyd Simmons and George Johnson were on the bench with fouls.

West wouldn't give up, battling back everytime and even taking a 47-46 lead on Boston's jumper. But Cherry Hill's press forced West into a series of turnovers and fouls, which the Spartans capitalized on to win, 59-53.

Jet propelled

Cherry Hill got good rebounding from George Johnson (23), shown snapping off a carom early in the 59-53 win over Garden City West, Gary Williams (31) and Floyd Simmons (partially hidden). Pat Dybas (42) and Pat McCann (behind Williams) battled on the boards to keep the Tigers in the game until free throws settled the issue with four seconds remaining. Cherry Hill only needs to beat weak Crestwood Friday night to clinch its third straight Tri-River title.

'The Lions' are coming to Romulus

The Detroit Lions will shed their grid uniforms and don cage jerseys when they invade Romulus High next month.

To help fatten the Varsity Club's "Brick Fund", the pro gridgers will take on a Romulus faculty team at 8 p.m., March 21.

Leading the pros will be quarterback Gary Danielson who will bring along with him Tom Sklandany, Dexter Bussey, Luther Bradley, Horace King, Freddie Scott, James Hunter and many more.

Romulus will field a team led by former cage greats Jesse Meriweather, Rod Hanna, Al Wilkerson, and Bill Hardy to name just a few.

Tickets can be purchased from members of the varsity club for $2.50. At the door, fans will have to pay $3.

Proceeds will go to the school's "brick fund", a fund which will eventually pay for the construction of a outdoors concession booth and facilities.

defeated Wayne Memorial jetted past Wyandotte's Bruins 92-80 for their sixth consecutive Great Lakes 8 Conference swim victory.

Hills established a school and a Wyandotte pool record when he beat Wyandotte's Jeff Zyjewski to the wire in the 500-yard freestyle. The winning time was posted as 4:52.4.

Earlier, Zyjewski edged Hills by one-tenth of a second to win the 200-yard freestyle with a 1:48.1. Hills' 1:48.2 was the best a Wayne swimmer has ever registered in that event.

Meanwhile, Brown turned in a 2:11.0 to lead teammate John Lewandowski to the finish for the 200-yard individual medley. Brown's 50.6 was a record and winning time for the 100-yard freestyle.

Brown and Hills combined with Lewandowski and Steve Matheny to capture first place in a record-setting time of 3:28.0 for the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Wayne winds down its conference dual meet season Thursday night at home against Riverview. The Zebras have set aside that night to honor their seniors - Hills, Brown, Lewandowski, Steve Thompson, Ray Gowen and Scott Papke who will be making their final appearances in the home waters.

record with nine touchdown passes in nine games.

"We received great leadership qualities from Rob at quarterback," complimented Gordon of his signal-caller who made honorable All-State mention by the Detroit Free Press.

"I felt many times it was like having a coach on the field when he was in there. He's a very dedicated young man, has a 3.2 grade average as a student and will do a real good job at Ferris State."

"Dan and Rob will be fine additions to their respective college football teams and we're very proud of them and what they have done while at John Glenn High School," Gordon said.

Tigers out to even score

Despite their dominance in the area, Belleville high swimmers have lost the last two dual meets to Suburban 8 Conference rivals Trenton.

And Coach Sam Vicchy's Tigers will attempt to end that jinx Thursday night when the two teams meet in their final conference meet of the season.

"We haven't beaten them in the past two years, so our seniors have gone winless against them," noted Vicchy whose team is 5-1 in league competition. "I see it shaping up as a close meet, but I feel we have the necessary depth to beat them this time around."

Belleville spotted Allen Park both relays - the medley and the freestyle - and still had enough to whip the Jaguars last Thursday, 51-31, to remain a solid second in the standings.

Chris Renton accounted for two of the Tigers' seven first places as he turned in a 1:53.1 for the 200-yard freestyle, then churned out a 56.2 in winning the 100-yard butterfly.

Tiger 'cubs' edge Plymouth

The Tiger Swim Club parlayed five individual first places and 10 winning relays into a 359-345 triumph over Plymouth in Age Group Swim competition.

The local tankers are now preparing for the league championships which will be held at 8 a.m., March 10 at Plymouth.

Eric Snider and Reiko Snider captured the 25-yard breaststroke and 50 yard breaststroke in 25.1 and 41.1, respectively, while Greg Lynch was the top 50-yard breaststroke in the 9-10 year old group (43.5) while David Fowler stroked a 41.1 in winning the 50-yard breaststroke for 11-12 year olds.

Randy Schofield touched in at 34.2 to win the 13-14 year olds 50 yard breaststroke.

The Tigers won the following relays:

For 8-9 year-olds, 100-yard medley: (Martin Duda, Eric Snider, Rick Schurr and Danny Fancher) - 1:31.4; 9-10 year olds: Matt Stoelton, Greg Lynch, Harpo Dubisky and Tony Atwell) - 1:11.1; the 200-yard medley relay for 11-12 year olds, (Chris Whitt, David Fowler, Darnell Gary, Greg Traskos) - 2:21.8 and the 200-medley for 13-14 with Mark Oddy, Randy Schofield, Doug Traskos, and Mike Justice - 1:58.8.

Belleville also had the winning 200-yard medley relay for girls with Laura Kuhr, Kris Griffith, Tammy Vickie and Melodie Clark - 2:09.9.

Brian Cantrell, Bill Atwell, Brian Banjai and Arian Sahrakar captured the freestyle relay for 8-9 year olds in 1:16.4, while Adam Pheeke, Greg Lynch, Tony Atwell and Harpo Dubisky were the winning combination for the 100-yard freestyle relay in 1:02.0 for 9-10 year olds.

Other winners included Norm Ferrell, Darrell Garym Ben Griffith and Greg Traskos in the 200-yard freestyle for 11-12 year olds (2:04.1) and Mike Justice, Brian McClinton, Doug Traskos and Mark Oddy were the winning foursome in the 13-14 age group (1:46.0).

The Tigers put together a team of Tammy Vickie, Jill Laramaie, Melodie Clark and Laura Kuhr to win the freestyle relay for 13-14 year old girls in 1:55.6.

Glenn is no match in pool for strong Franklin team

Livonia Franklin, sweeping 10 of the 11 events, destroyed Westland John Glenn 102-69 to chalk up its third Northwest Suburban Conference swim victory in four starts.

Coach Larry Teahan's Patriots continue to trail North Farmington, the undefeated defending champ which has won all four of its league meets this season.

The six teams in the conference will meet March 8-9 at Redford Union to determine the 1979 championships and North again is in the driver's seat.

Franklin received a couple of first places from Tim Weber who covered the 50-yard freestyle in 23.4, then came back to win the 100 freestyle in 5:20.1.

Glenn avoided a shutout from first places thanks to David Luckett who turned in a 1:04.3 in winning the 100-yard backstroke.

Ford co-workers honor retiree Al Dolph

By Mrs. Joseph Spring
699-4021

Albert Dolph of Edgar Street was guest of honor at a retirement party given by his co-workers at the Ford Motor Company, on Thursday, Feb. 8. The dinner was held at Jesters Court Banquet Room in Dearborn. Among the 60 present, besides his wife, Addie, were members of his family: son Jerry and wife, Susan, of West Huron River Drive, and daughter, Paula, from Pittsburg, Pa., who made a surprise visit to be with her family for the occasion. Albert retired on Jan. 31 after having been with Ford's in Dearborn for 39 years. He was presented with a golf cart and a purse of money.

Mrs. Harry (Sybil) Wilkinson of Liberty Street returned home on Friday of last week from Dallas, Texas where she had spent a week with a long time friend, Pauline Dingerson.

On Saturday of last week Lynn Saunders and son, Jeffrey of Fraser; Mrs. Harold Klaiss of River Rouge and Mrs. Clayton Saunders of Liberty Street were among the many who attended the two week exhibition of Mail Art held at the Lee Hoffman Galleries in Birmingham. The latter's son, Robert Saunders of Weare, N.H., had five articles of art form on display at the exhibit. Mrs. Klaiss was a weekend guest of her friend, Mrs. Saunders.

Arlene Martins of Battle Creek was a weekend guest of her friend, Cheryl Thompson of High Street. Arlene, who is formerly from Oklahoma, and Cheryl were co-workers at Yosemite National Park.

Mrs. Leon Boldt of Roland Street attended the monthly meeting of the Past Matron's Association of Orient Chapter No. 77, O.E.S., on Wednesday of last week. It was held at the home of Mrs. Verna Sommers of Northville.

Mrs. Ralph (Esther) Van Dervoort of Wear Road returned home on Friday of last week after having spent a week with cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Pavelka at Ft. Myers, Florida. While there she watched the Edison Centennial Parade, visited Edison's home and museum and toured a large shell factory.

Others returning from Florida recently were Mrs. S. Richard Hamilton of East Huron River Drive, has her daughter Mrs. Fred Flavell, and a neighbor Mrs. Kenneth Sakewski of Biggs Street who had spent a week at Clearwater. Besides visiting friends they spent a day at Disney World and other places of interest.

Mrs. Herbert (Betty) Mida of Robson Road has been a patient at the Chelsea Medical Center in Chelsea for the past several days.

Among those from this community who attended the Past Commander's Night dinner sponsored by Ann Arbor Commandry No. 13 at the Masonic Temple Tuesday evening, Feb. 20, were Mr. and Mrs. Walter James of Clay Road and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Boldt of Roland Street. Also Vincent Goodnuff of Alva Drive and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grover of New Boston. A special evening's entertainment was planned for the ladies.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mericle of Denton Road were Sunday callers on a friend, Homer Swalley of Galion, Ohio and also spent some time in Bucyrus making arrangements for the K.F.O.C. International Spring meet.

Bring the Tropics to your table

Fresh coconut, one of the tropics' most delicious, treasured flavors has entranced American travelers to the Caribbean for generations. Evidence of the affection Americans feel for fresh coconut is everywhere. The Pina Colada, that exciting blend of coconut, pineapple juice and rum, is gaining popularity faster than any other drink in the U.S.!

Returning Caribbean travelers will go to all sorts of lengths trying to duplicate that fresh coconut flavor in a Pina Colada at home. Coconut-based desserts and entrees, discovered by more and more Americans in their visits to the tropics, are sorely missed at home.

Now coconut lovers can have the fresh, natural flavor they went wild about in the Caribbean. Holland House Brand's new Coco Casa Cream of Coconut brings Americans all the authentic goodness of coconut in its most delicious, practical cream form, but without the long, difficult preparation process they had to go through before.

That's because recreating the flavor of fresh coconut is no simple matter — even with ample supplies of coconut on hand. The preparation of coconut cream, the nut's most useful form, not only involves grating the mature white meat of the coconut and the heating it in its own milk. Once this done, it must be cooled and drained through two thicknesses of cheesecloth. Finally the drained liquid is allowed to set so that the cream can be skimmed off and refrigerated.

Holland House uses an exclusive process to blend top quality ingredients into a fully homogenized cream of coconut. This results in a product with unique smoothness and flavor balance. Coco Casa comes in both 15½ oz. or 8½ oz. can with a resealable plastic lid to preserve freshness.

The recipes that follow — including some American favorites from the Caribbean — are effortless with Coco Casa. Try them, and if you listen closely you'll hear the surf, feel the warm ocean breeze, taste the fresh coconut...

FRESH COCONUT CREAM PIE

10" baked pie shell
6 ozs. Coco Casa Cream of Coconut
¼ cup milk
10 ozs. mini-marshmallows
3 cups heavy cream whipped stiff
2 cups coconut flakes (fresh or canned)

Mix Cream of Coconut with milk. Add marshmallows and cook over low heat until marshmallows melt. Cool in bowl and refrigerate 1 hour or until mixture starts to jell. Beat jelled mixture until frothy with electric mixer. Carefully fold in whipped cream. Blend in 1 cup flaked coconut, by hand. Pour into baked pie shell. Sprinkle remaining cup of flaked coconut (toast if desired) over pie and refrigerate at least 6 hours before serving.

PINA COLADA

Combine 2 oz. Coco Casa Cream of Coconut, 4 oz. pineapple juice, 3 oz. Rum and 1 large cup ice cubes in a blender. Blend well and serve over ice. Garnish with pineapple stick and cherry (if desired). Serves 3.

CHI CHI

Substitute Vodka for Rum in above recipe.

COCONUT FRIED SHRIMP

1 lb. small raw shrimp, shelled and deveined
One-third cup lemon juice
½ tsp. salt
One-third tsp. ground ginger
3 tsps. curry powder
1-¾ cups flour
2 tsps. baking powder
1-¼ cups skimmed milk
½ cup Coco Casa Cream of Coconut
3-½ oz. can flaked coconut fat for frying

Marinate shrimp in lemon juice, salt, ginger and curry powder for 1 to 2 hours. Drain well. Prepare batter of 1-½ cups flour, baking powder, milk and Cream of Coconut. Coat shrimp with remaining flour; dip in prepared batter and then dip lightly into flaked coconut. Fry in deep fat (hot) for about 2-3 minutes. Fry only about 6 shrimps at a time.

COCONUT CREAM CELESTE

1 cup heavy cream
6 Tbs. sugar
1 Tbs. unflavored gelatin
3 Tbs. water
1 cup sour cream
½ cup Coco Casa Cream of Coconut

Combine heavy cream and sugar in a saucepan and stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Soften gelatin in the 3 Tbs. of water and stir. Remove cream and sugar mixture from heat and add gelatin. When gelatin is dissolved, beat in sour cream with a rotary beater. Stir only until mixture is blended and smooth, add Cream of Coconut and pour into lightly oiled mold. Chill at least 3 hours or overnight, before serving.

AMBROSIA CASA

1 large (16 oz.) can mandarin oranges (drained)
1 banana sliced
1 small (8½ oz.) can pineapple chunks (drained)
½ cup mini-marshmallows
One-third cup flaked coconut
1½ cups orange juice
6 ozs. Coco Casa Cream of Coconut

Combine first 5 ingredients in a bowl. Add orange juice and Cream of Coconut, carefully, to the mixture. Cover and place in refrigerator. Allow mixture to marinate at least 3 hours or overnight if desired, stirring occasionally.

These recipes were developed for Coco Casa by Sara Ellen Krinsk, consulting chef to Holland House Brands, Co.

Club tours career resource center

The February meeting of the Home Arts Club was held at Belleville High School where Muriel Wolfe of the program committee introduced her husband, Roland, who is media specialist at the school. The media center includes the library and its 16,000 volumes, the career resource center with its new computer and the materials center (all audio-visual materials) and the mini-auditorium.

Wolfe explained that the new computer in the career resource center can help students learn about the different career possibilities, educational requirements and possible colleges for different careers, wages, working conditions and other information. The computer is also able to help a student choose a future job which reflects his likes and special abilities. A demonstration of the computer and tour of the media center followed.

Betty Gott, president, conducted the business meeting which later was held in the home economics room. Fourteen members answered roll call and four guests were introduced: Geraldine Kely, Helen White, Dorothy Curtis and Marilyn Oates.

Program chairman Mary Kosin announced plans for the traditional

May banquet which, tentatively, is set for Napoleon's in Plymouth. The January meetings were discussed and because of weather conditions and poor attendance, it was suggested that no out-of-town speakers be booked for that month. Future program committees, it was felt, should be alerted to the January problem and should plan an evening which would not entail speakers having to travel any distance only to address a small group.

Charlotte Budd suggested that the calling committee be revised. In the past members have been reminded of meetings and programs and the group voted to begin the practice again in March.

The next meeting on March 12 will be a Stretch and Sew demonstration with a possible style show included if 25 or more people can be guaranteed to attend. Members will be notified which type program will be scheduled and asked to bring guests that evening.

Following adjournment the group enjoyed a cherry dessert served by hostesses Frances Jobe and Jean Ferguson. Their table appointments carried out a red and white Valentine theme with a centerpiece of silk flowers.

Cynthia Wilson, Harry Mack to wed

A summer wedding is being planned by Cynthia L. Wilson of Ypsilanti and Harry R. Mack Jr. of Belleville, according to Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Wilson of 8303 Huron River Dr., Ypsilanti, parents of the bride-elect, who are announcing the engagement.

A junior at Eastern Michigan University where she is majoring in marketing, Miss Wilson is an alumna of Lincoln High School.

Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Mack of 45605 Harmony Lane, Belleville, graduated from Ypsilanti High School. He currently is enrolled in the School of Dentistry at the University of Michigan where potpourri

BY LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

There are some weeks when a 'lead' item for "potpourri" is a mighty difficult task and the old think-tank has to work double-time-and-a-half. But this time, knowing the paper would be out on February 28, finds me in no such quandary.

Twenty-six years ago this day yours truly took on the new title "Mama". And St. Joe's in Ann Arbor was claiming me as a resident of the OB-GYN department and a seven pound - eight ounce baby girl as a member of the nursery.

Little did I suspect that come 1979 (a date so far away it was almost like science-fiction) I would be anticipating still another label, that of "Grand-mama". Whew! That wee bairn I birthed on that cold but clear day in 1953 is, herself, now infanticating (to coin an old Walter Winchellism.)

It was just about a month ago that our Land-of-Lincolns, Luanne and Pete, asked if we wouldn't like to get together for dinner - the whole family - halfway, in Kalamazoo, (where Sue and Carol camp out.)

It sounded like a fine idea until we realized the date they'd picked (the only time we were all free) was the 'morning after' the Men's Club Dance at St. Anthony's.

BG and I agreed way ahead of time that we'd not particularly feel up to that 2-hour trip across the state and had about decided we'd ask for a rain-check. But with each letter from "our trio" came the message that they (all) were looking forward to our little rendezvous so -

You guessed it. Not only did we decide (a bit reluctantly) to make the trip but we had to hit 10:00 mass in order to make our 1:00 dinner date (that's why we skipped out early, Father.)

Bleary-eyed, bushed and yawning, we greeted our quartet who'd never seemed brighter or bouncier - (or hungrier.) (And I DO think they felt a tiny bit of remorse at seeing their sad-looking parents.)

Not being the least bit hungry, BG and I still managed to help put away a 5-course Oriental spread which included a very special "dessert" - a darling card on which Lu had written a clever poem which informed us that come this summer we would be singing a new tune - lullabys.

And we think that's pretty exciting!

A very nice note from Mrs. Marvella Hall of New Boston not only helps continue our discussion of favorite tunes but gives us an easy-to-do cookie recipe for the younger set. Mrs. H. says, "My kids love to bake and putter around the kitchen after school. To keep them happy (and to keep them from getting into too much of a mess) I usually get everything out ahead of time and then let them do their own thing. Here is a recipe they like because it doesn't take any baking, is fast and really simple to do."

PEANUT BUTTER - OATS COOKIES

- 1 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons cocoa
- 1/2 cup instant dry milk
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- 1/4 cup water
- 1/4 cup peanut butter
- 1 1/2 cups rolled oats
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix first five ingredients in sauce pan and bring to a boil. Stir and boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat and add peanut butter. Stir until peanut butter is melted and add rolled oats and vanilla. Mix well. Drop by spoonfuls on waxed paper. Let cool at room temperature before serving or storing. Makes 1-1/2 inch cookies.

As for Mrs. Hall's all-time favorites from Broadway and elsewhere, she says "It was a lot harder than I thought, coming up with 10 favorites. I play the piano and love so many pieces that I'm not even sure if these ARE my all-time favorites. I guess you could just say they're the ones that came to mind first."

Cherish—Brian's Song—We've Only Just Begun—Misty—Moon River—Amazing Grace—Greensleeves—Nola—The Happy Wanderer (Valderi-Valdera).

SUPERSTITIOUS?—In case your big hangup is Friday the 13th (and there's one coming up in April), you might like to hear some of the explanations for the fear.

Friday the 13th is so ominous a day that no less a personage than the late Sir Winston Churchill refused to travel on that date.

One possible reason for this widespread aversion is that Eve was supposed to have slipped Adam that fateful apple on a Friday. According to another story, Friday is unlucky because Jesus was crucified on that day. The number 13 has been considered unlucky since ancient times and may go back to the Last Supper with its 13 guests. (And, incidentally, that Friday the 13th coming up is — Good Friday.)

WOULD YOU BELIEVE that the Hershey cocoa cans have recipes for chocolate cake and fudge but none for hot cocoa? Having a little bout with insomnia last week and feeling a bit chilled as I continued F. Lee Bailey's "Secrets", I decided a cup of hot chocolate would be just the ticket.

The instant stuff was not to be seen (with the girls gone it's not a staple anymore) so I grabbed the Hershey can and prepared to go the "old-fashioned" route. But, lo and behold, nary a recipe to be found and it'd been a 1-o-n-g time between cocoa clatches. I seemed to remember, tho, that the bulk of the drink was made with hot water plus a dash of salt so I proceeded to brew the stuff in my own fashion.

Not bad—but, can you believe they've eliminated such important directions on their container? Are they telling us the instants HAVE replaced the old route?

With Easter (and golf vacation) looming on the horizon, it's time for a bit of serious belt-tightening around the Smith pad (and oh-h, it's so hard not to bake and cook in the "old style.") And since cutting calories alone won't do the job, one has to go the old monotonous exercise route (BOR-ing!)

There are lots of ways, tho, to burn that caloric intake off and you might care to know what activities the "experts" have taken into their "calories used in one hour" data.

For instance, cleaning windows and making beds incinerates some 200-250; driving a car, 75-125; hand-sewing and knitting, the same amount. But doing a hand wash and stripping beds can total up to 250-325.

Then there are bicycling (at 5 mph) - 150-250; bowling - 200-250; dancing (fox-trot) - 250-450; ironing, sweeping, polishing furniture - 125-200; jogging (5 mph) - 450-500; playing a musical instrument - 125-200; playing cards, watching television - 75-125; preparing and cooking food - 125-200; raking leaves, gardening (weeding) - 250-325; scrubbing floors, mopping - 200-250; skiing (downhill and cross-country) - 250-550; strolling (1 mph) - 75-125; swimming (breaststroke, 20 yards per minute) - 250-325; tennis (recreational doubles) 250-325; typing, desk work, talking on the telephone - 75-125; walking (3 mph) - 200-250; writing, reading - 75-125; racquetball - 450-500.

It may be the answer

Artificial light for plants

Sooner or later — usually in February — it happens to most indoor gardeners: after watching their once lush houseplants grow pale and straggly under winter low light conditions, they resolve it's time to do something!

If you've reached that point, you have several options, up to and including moving to Arizona, which gets a bit more sun than Michigan. A somewhat less drastic step might be to supplement natural light with artificial illumination.

Extension horticulturists at Michigan State University suggest constructing an artificial light garden. Though building a hobby greenhouse or a passive solar home with a south-facing window wall might be more appealing, investing in a light fixture and a few fluorescent tubes is probably a more realistic approach to supplemental light.

They advise using fluorescent lights for several good reasons. One of these is that fluorescent lights are more energy efficient than incandescent bulbs. That is, fluorescent tubes give off much more light for the wattage they use. It would take three to five 40-watt incandescent bulbs to get the same amount of light provided by one 40-watt fluorescent tube.

Much of the electrical energy that goes into incandescent bulbs is given off as heat instead of light. This heat can damage sensitive plant tissues.

Another reason to use fluorescent lights is that plants respond better to their light. Plants grown under incandescent tend to have pale foliage and excessively long stems. Plants also age rapidly. In the light from fluorescent tubes, on the other hand, stems do not elongate and leaves grow close together. Multiple side shoots develop readily, flowering occurs over a long period of time, and plants mature slowly.

Several types of fluorescent tubes — including cool white, warm white, daylight and special plant growth bulbs — are generally available. Though cool white bulbs give off more blue light than plants want, they are usually OK for most plants, especially if some natural light is also available. If plants are grown under 100 percent artificial light, half cool white and half daylight or warm white bulbs make a good combination.

When natural light is low or nonexistent, artificial light should be provided for 12 to 16 hours a day. A timer to turn the lights off and on automatically makes it easy, but you can just as well turn the lights on when you get up and off at bedtime.

Leaving the lights on 24 hours a day is not a good long-term idea, the MSU experts advise. Plants need a dark period at some time during the day — not to rest, but to use the food they manufactured during the lighted hours to build and repair their tissues.

The best place for an artificial light garden provides good temperatures for growth (about 75 degrees F during the day, 65 degrees at night) and freedom from hot and cold drafts. Think of yourself as well as your plants and locate the garden so that the light from it will not be a problem.

Most houseplants will benefit from a little extra light in the winter. Plants with high to medium light requirements — including many flowering plants and plants with variegated foliage — will benefit most. For best results, place plants with high light requirements 6 to 10 inches from the light source. Those that need lower light intensities will do well on the outskirts of the lighted area.

Mom-to-be feted at cradle shower

Twenty-one close friends, mostly co-workers from Associated Newspapers in Wayne, were together Sunday afternoon, Feb. 18, for the cradle shower which honored Kathie Elmore of Westland.

Held at the Westland home of Sue McDonald, the party was co-hosted by Maureen Camps of Westland and Virginia Roullier and Lee Smith of Belleville. Punch was served as guests arrived from Detroit, Taylor, Garden City, Wayne, Westland and Belleville. An ice-breaker game was conducted, after which luncheon, featuring a do-it-yourself salad buffet, was enjoyed. The table appointments included a Teddy bear complete with blue and white checked bib and booties to match the decorative scheme of the baby's nursery.

Taking home prizes from the games which followed were Gail Snible of Romulus and Debbie Hanson of Westland who also won the door prize in a point system contest. The honoree also went home with some lovely gifts for the future heir which she and her husband Glenn are expecting in early March. A hand-crocheted blanket, hand-knit sweater set, baby book, jumper seat, layette items in all sizes, stuffed toys and a hamper will be tucked away in the baby's room. Kathie, who had been manager of the composition department at Associated Newspapers, was also feted at a farewell luncheon on Friday, Feb. 16, at China Star Palace in Westland.

Area cookie chairmen

Two Romulus women, Connie Morris of 37545 Walnut Drive (left) and Karen Charkiewicz of 12872 Hannan Road (right) have been appointed as area chairmen for the 1979 Huron Valley Girl Scout Council Annual Cookie Sale now in progress. At a recent kick-off luncheon, the two were among those meeting Robert Taylor (center) more familiarly known as "Fat Bob, the Singing Plumber." Taylor is this year's celebrity cookie chairman.

Bryan is February arrival

"Bryan Charles" is the title given to the new heir born Feb. 11 to Mack and Connie Pinson of 37 Locust, Belleville. Making his appearance at 2:15 p.m. at Women's Hospital in Ann Arbor, the infant weighed in at nine pounds - 12½ ounces and measured 20½ inches.

Awaiting Bryan's arrival home were his brother Brett, seven, and a sister Brooke who's 22 months old.

The children's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Pinson of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ingram of Westland.

Diet Tip: Plain yogurt can be substituted almost any place for sour cream or mayonnaise. Make your next potato salad with yogurt or dress fresh fruit with fruit flavored yogurt.

Romulus head GS sale

Among the 30 persons appointed as area chairmen for the 1979 Huron Valley Girl Scout Council Annual Cookie Sale are two Romulus women: Karen Charkiewicz of 12872 Hannan Road and Connie Morris of 37545 Walnut Drive. Ruth Weber of Ann Arbor, Council Cookie Sale Chairman, announced the women's selection. As part of their responsibilities, they will help to organize and conduct the sale in their designated areas. In addition, they will help to recruit and then train troop cookie chairmen on sale procedures. The goal for this year's sale, which began Feb. 23 and ends March 19, is a half million boxes. If this is realized, it will mean a Girl Scout profit of $365,000. Profits help supplement funds from United Ways, fees and other contributions, and help to insure a high quality of Girl Scout programs available to all girls in Washtenaw, western Wayne, northern Monroe and Livingston counties. "It takes a lot of hard working girls and adults to sell 500,000 boxes of cookies and crackers," explained Ruth Weber, adding, "but with women like Mrs. Charkiewicz and Mrs. Morris serving as area chairmen, I know we can do the job."

Is your garden 'in a rut'?

Even the most dedicated gardener gets bored with the same old tomatoes and beans year after year. If your garden is in a rut, Extension specialists at Michigan State University suggest trying some new crops, or at least some new varieties of your old favorites. For instance, gardeners who like Oriental foods may want to try growing some of the ingredients. Chinese cabbage, mustard cabbage, Chinese kale, vegetable soybeans and white radishes are among the possibilities. Edible podded peas are another. Pods picked before they start to bulge with peas are sweet and crunchy. They can be planted as early as you can work the soil. They mature in about two months, so they're one of the first crops to be ready for harvest. This year there's a new wrinkle in edible podded peas. Sugar snap, all all-America gold medal winner for 1979, is billed as an edible podded snap pea that can be eaten even when it's filled with peas. It also offers an advantage over ordinary shelled peas: it provides about twice as much edible matter per foot of row. Sugar snap can be steamed, stir-fried or snapped and eaten raw in salads. It freezes well but cannot be canned. Canning, like overcooking, makes the pods fall apart. Order early; this new crop will probably be in high demand. A salad garden need

Mummenschanz to perform at Music Hall

Detroit audiences will have a new opportunity to see one of the most fresh and original shows in recent history when the Mummenschanz return to Detroit's Music Hall Center for six performances March 8 through 11.

The Mummenschanz is that marvelously strange and funny mime troupe whose use of clay, toilet paper, and blob-like masks have made them a favorite of children and adults from Europe to California.

The familiar traditions of white-face pantomime disappear immediately when the first member of the troupe appears onstage completely hidden in a large, soft, tent-like costume and proceeds to undulate in attempts to climb atop a platform on center stage. The cast of odd "characters" created by the Mummenschanz goes on to include amoebas, insects, balloon-heads, and people whose emotions are communicated by drawings on each of their facial features.

Although they have been praised for their excellent body control and imaginative use of props and costumes, possibly the best recommendation of the Mummenschanz is their ability to entertain on whatever level you wish to place them — as profound, funny, abstract, silly, or sophisticated performers.

Performances at the Music Hall are scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30 p.m., Sunday evening at 6:30 p.m. and at 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

And also coming to the Music Hall is Bach star Virgil Fox, the king of the concert organ, who will perform on March 7, and if his hundreds of concerts over the past eight years are any indication, the audience will include rock music freaks as well as the expected classical music fans.

A rock audience for a Bach concert? This seeming phenomenon started in 1970 when non-conformist Fox had the temerity to add a light show to his all-Bach concert and present it in the hot-bed of rock music, New York's Fillmore East. At the end of the night, 2,650 screaming kids (turned on by the lights, Bach, Fox and the sounds of his magnificent electric organ) jumped to their feet and, according to Rolling Stone Magazine, "Gave him the kind of standing ovation usually reserved for Eric Clapton, calling out for more."

"Yet Fox' reverence for Bach is evangelical. He proclaims: 'My Bach is a red-blooded, gutsy, he-man Bach.'"

Fox dismisses old-fashioned Bach purists as "barnacles on the ship of music."

"I am controversial as hell," continues the 61-year-old former church organist. "My more conservative colleagues regard me as an infidel. They say I'm a showman, and I'm proud to be one."

And showman he is, with his treader's cape, iridescent paisley jacket and rhinestone-studded suede slippers.

The Virgil Fox Revelation Lights concert will start at 8:30 p.m. at the Music Hall March 7. Tickets for both shows can be obtained at the Music Hall box office, 350 Madison Avenue, or by calling 963-7680.

Exhibit reserves evening

The Wednesday night reserved visit to the Art Institute's "Second Empire" show is proving popular with the art public.

A $4 reserved time-and-date ticket, which includes the show, an Acousti-guide recorded tour and a pocket guide to the 362 objects from France is now being sold, according to Dr. Audley Grossman, head of Visitors Reception. Reservations are for 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. on each of the reserved nights.

In addition to the show-only visit, there is the $15 show and candlelight supper offering on the reserved Wednesdays.

Grossman reported that 26,000 persons have seen "The Second Empire: Art in France Under Napoleon III" in the exhibition's first four weeks. The show, biggest in Art Institute history, will be in Detroit through March 18.

"Second Empire" is open six days weekly, Tuesday through Sunday, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. General admission is $2.50. Students and senior citizens are $1.50. Wednesday night $4 reservations — available each Wednesday through March 14 — may be made by calling (313) 832-2730.

Extension Service offers seminar on stress, family

The American family is undergoing stress because of changing roles and relationships. And to help equip people with skills to make effective life adjustments an all-day seminar is being sponsored by Family Living Education of the Michigan State University Extension Service and the Dearborn branch of the American Association of University Women.

The March 16 seminar will begin with registration at 8:30 a.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, 600 N. Brady, Dearborn. There is a $3.50 registration fee. Advance registration is requested and can be completed by contacting the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service at 721-6565 or 563-2950.

Babysitting will be available at the Dearborn Youth Center and can be called by contacting AAUW volunteer Carole Wells at 563-1455. The fee is $2 per child.

Concurrent presentations designed to focus on relationships will feature educators and specialists in areas relating to effective communications, self-awareness, male-female relationships and the role of money, sex, values and self concept in relationships.

Emphasizing 1979 as the "Year of the Child", keynote speaker Dayton Gnaul, family counselor and co-founder of the Growth Center Inc., will present "The Child in the Adult", focusing on the need for affirming, respecting that child within all of us.

Dr. Paul F. Pearsall, chief of the Problems of Daily Living Clinic at Sinai Hospital, will discuss "Sexual Options in the Era of Choice; Sexuality and the Life Cycle".

In a presentation, entitled, "Money and Relationships", Brenda Schneider, director of consumer and urban affairs of Manufacturers National Bank Corp. and president of Consumer Educators of Michigan, will examine the role values play in the handling of family finances.

Parenting education specialist and Michigan State University Extension home economist Kathleen Bufton will speak on "Reducing Stress through Effective Communications" and share tips and techniques for "Surviving with a Teen-Ager in the Home."

Participants may choose from such other topics as the Changing roles of Women in the Contemporary American Family, Financial Survival Skills for Women, Handling Hostility, Coping as a Single Parent, the Importance of Self Concept in Growing Old, Alternatives for Child Care Today, Parenting Skills for the Early Years and a Systematic Approach to Career Planning.

Family Living Education is a program unit of the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service, an extension of Michigan State University. Cooperative Extension Service programs are open to all persons without regard to race, sex, color or creed.

For further information call 721-6565.

Is your garden in a rut?

(Continued from Pg B-6) not be limited to leaf lettuce and round, red radishes. Try growing romaine, endive, spinach and escarole for salad greens; oblong red, round white and long white radishes; green onions, carrots, cucumbers, cherry tomatoes and peppers.

Speaking of peppers, let this be the year you try a couple of plants of sweet yellow, banana-shaped peppers or green bell peppers that turn yellow instead of red when they ripen.

Tomatoes, too, offer a wide range of sizes and colors, from tiny red and yellow cherry tomatoes to giant red, yellow and even white-fruited varieties. A tomato variety developed specifically for stuffing is also available.

Is your garden in a rut?

If you have room to spare, try your hand at growing peanuts and sweet potatoes. Just be aware that growing these long-season crops is a race against the weather — early fall frosts may mean no harvest.

Other less common root crops worth trying are parsnips, rutabagas, Jerusalem artichokes and salsify. Or look to leeks, shallots, chives and garlic — all members of the onion family — to spice up your garden.

If you like summer squash and zucchini, try scallopini, a recent All-America selection that's great for stuffing. For a different twist on winter squash, try vegetable spaghetti, a hard-skinned squash with spaghetti-like pulp that goes well with your favorite meat and tomato sauce.

A whole garden devoted to beans would be easy enough. In addition to green snap beans, available in both bush and climbing varieties, most seed catalogs offer a wide selection of yellow wax beans, purple-podded snap beans that turn green when they're cooked, Italian flat beans, dwarf horticultural bush beans (straight pods that are green at the snap stage and turn pale yellow green with splashes of red at the shell stage), lima beans, kidney beans, soybeans, scarlet runner pole beans (primarily an ornamental) and yardlong beans.

Say cheese with fruit

Fruit and cheese are always popular as a dessert or snack; but which fruit with what cheese? There are no rules, though many people prefer melon slices with Gouda and Brick; pineapple with Monterey Jack; apples and green grapes with Provolone and Swiss; pears with Colby. Provide a generous assortment of both and do your own taste-testing.

Dial-a-Garden topics

Dial-a-Garden, the system of pre-recorded daily gardening tips is sponsored by the Washtenaw County Cooperative Extension Service. The system is in operation 24 hours per day, seven days per week.

Interested persons are invited to call 971-1122 at their convenience and receive timely, up to date gardening information.

Next week's Dial-a-Garden topics are:

Friday, March 2, Tomato Varieties for Michigan.

Monday, March 5, Book Review - Edible Wild Plants.

Tuesday, March 6, Starting Seeds Indoors.

Wednesday, March 7, Time to Start Cool Weather Vegetables Indoors.

Thursday, March 8, Landscape-by-Mail.

Furnishings: Purchase with care

By LINDA JOY
Executive Director
Michigan Consumers Council

Home furnishings, such as furniture, carpeting or wallpaper, vary as much in style as they do in price. That's why it's so important to shop carefully and look for quality. A minimal amount of foresight and preparation will help make shopping for home furnishings less confusing and, often, less expensive.

It's essential to start with a reputable merchant. Check with the state Attorney General's office to see if there have been any complaints filed against the business. Its address is 525 W. Ottawa, Lansing 48909, or call 517-373-1140.

Ask friends or relatives to recommend a business where they've received good service. Reputable merchants will more likely have knowledgeable salespeople. They also will make an effort to resolve a complaint.

Don't be overwhelmed by the many choices available. If you learn what questions to ask a salesperson, many of the selections can be eliminated before you seriously consider them.

Carry a notepad and pen or pencil to write down information. Ask the salesperson or manager:

- Whether the manufacturer offers a warranty;
- How to care for finishes or fabrics;
- What should be used to clean the article;
- Where the item can be cleaned if you can't clean it; and
- What kind of repair service is offered.

Test your selection for strength. Apply pressure to tables to see if they wobble. Check drawers to make sure they open and close smoothly. If durability is a consideration, as in children's furniture, check to see that the wood is joined securely—not just with staples. Backs and bottoms of drawers also are important to the strength of the item. Be

SHOULDER PAIN & CHIROPRACTIC

The Shoulder Joint

The shoulder joint has great mobility — perhaps the greatest range of motion in any joint of the body. For that reason, the shoulder is subject to considerable trauma. Forceful exercise, rheumatism, bursitis, sprains, occupational stress, postural defects — any of these can cause shoulder pain.

Pain is

Nature's Warning

Pain is nature's warning something has gone wrong. Pain signals are caused by sensory nerve stimulation. The network of nerves coordinating movement of the shoulder and arms is called the brachial plexus. The brachial plexus supplies vital nerve energy transmitted from the brain, through the spinal column to the shoulder muscles.

Shoulder Joint Injuries

The shoulder joint, like other body joints, also can become infected or injured. A strained or torn tendon, resulting from a fall or unusual strain, is a frequent type of shoulder injury. Such injuries can produce a vertebral misalignment called a subluxation.

Subluxation and Chiropractic

The brain produces electrical impulses of energy constantly, generating power to muscles and organs. A vertebral misalignment irritates the nerve, which distorts these impulses. Without the normal supply of nerve energy, sprains, infections or torn muscles cannot heal. Chiropractors are trained to locate subluxations and to relieve pressure by correcting the subluxated vertebrae.

Shoulder Pain and Spinal Adjustments

Inflammation and pressure resulting from subluxations are relieved by spinal adjustments. Adjustments restore the normal energy impulses, allowing nature's healing process to proceed. Gradually, the shoulder pains subside.

See Your Chiropractor When Pain Begins

Immediate attention to shoulder pain can prevent secondary complications; statistics show early treatment helps ensure favorable results. Don't wait for pain to vanish. Consult your chiropractor when shoulder pain begins.

DSO, under Torkanowsky, will perform at Eastern

The 100-member Detroit Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of guest conductor Werner Torkanowsky, will perform in concert at 8 p.m. March 7 in Eastern Michigan University's Pease Auditorium.

The concert, sponsored by Eastern's Office of Campus Life and the Michigan Council for the Arts, is part of the orchestra's five-day tour of the Lower Peninsula. The EMU concert will feature Smetana's Overture to "The Bartered Bride," Prokofiev's Violin Concerto No. 1, with Associate Concertmaster Bogos Mordchikyan as featured soloist, Tchaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet" Fantasy Overture and Stravinsky's "Firebird" Suite.

Torkanowsky, a native of Germany who emigrated to Israel in 1932, became the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's guest conductor and associate music director in September 1977 after 14 years as music director of the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra.

He received his earliest training from his mother, a concert pianist, and later studied violin with members of the orchestra in Tel Aviv. His formal musical studies include stints with Raphael Bronstein in New York and at L' Ecole Montoux.

He made his debut as an orchestra conductor with the Minneapolis Symphony in 1960. In 1961, after winning the coveted Naumberg Award, he made his first guest conducting appearance with the New York Philharmonic. Torkanowsky has appeared with every major orchestra in the United States and made his debut with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in 1961.

Tickets for the EMU concert are $8 (center of the main floor and balcony) and $6 (side and rear of the main floor and balcony). Student tickets are available for $4. Tickets may be purchased at the McKenny Union lobby shop, Richardson's Michigan Avenue Pharmacy, Hudsons - Briarwood and Jacobson's J-Shop in Ann Arbor.

Special gift categories include contributor, a donation of $35 or more includes reserved concert tickets for two; patron, a donation of $100 or more includes concert tickets for four; and sponsor, a donation of $200 or more includes concert tickets for 10.

For tickets or further information on the concert, call the EMU Office of Campus Life at (313) 487-3045.

'The Sea'

The Detroit premiere of "The Sea", a comedy by Edward Bond, will open March 1 at the Hilberry Studio Theatre. An English playwright whose film scripts include Antonioni's "Blow Up", Bond recently has been attracting widespread attention in America. Leading the cast of "The Sea" are Sandra Prappas (standing), Kathryn Paraventi (left) and Phillip W. Moss. "The Sea" runs through March 3 and the following week, next Wednesday through Saturday, March 7-10, at 8 p.m. Contact the Hilberry Theatre box office at 577-2972 for reservations.

Furnishings: Buy with care

If you think you may want to refinish the item at a later date, select a piece with a minimum of plastic trim. Be cautious, because plastic trim often looks like the wood itself. A used furniture or antique dealer may be able to recommend furniture which will lend itself to refinishing as well as grow in value.

Keep in mind that the sample you see and the item ordered may not be exactly the same. Dye lots change, and samples often fade or change color from constant handling. If you need two chairs to match, for example, order them at the same time.

The Federal Trade Commission requires labels which state the materials used, where the item was manufactured and other helpful information. Read these tags carefully for fiber content in upholstered fabrics, which are usually blends of different fibers. Generally, the cloth will be stronger and wear longer if it contains a percentage of synthetic fibers.

These labels also will indicate whether the item is an "almost-wood," a "solid" or a veneer. Be careful in selecting the wood. Technology has made it possible to make many other materials look like a hardwood. Therefore, make sure you know what you're buying.

Tags on floor and wall coverings should be removed and put away for future reference once you by the item because they include flammability conditions and care instructions.

If you plan on being your own decorator, take careful measurements before purchasing floor and wall coverings. If you don't know how to do this, ask a store which specializes in the item you want to buy. Accurate measurements will make the difference between disaster—not enough material—and satisfaction. If the store will install the material, give them approximate measurements and insist on an accurate measurement before they install the wall or floor coverings.

Check for hidden costs. Floor coverings may need padding or professional installation. Wall coverings with patterns must be matched, so be sure to buy enough extra material for that purpose. Delivery charges may be another added expense. And if the purchase will be financed, interest charges will add to the price. After you're home with your purchase, deal immediately with any problems which arise. If you can't get help from the retailer, contact your local consumer protection agency or the state Attorney General's Office. There are also two industry groups which will handle consumer complaints—the Furniture Industry Consumer Action Panel (FICAP), Box 951, High Point, N.C. 27261, and the Carpet and Rug Industry Consumer Action Panel (CRICAP), Box 1568, Dalton, Ga. 30720.

CITY OF ROMULUS NOTICE

LEGAL NOTICE TO FAMILIES WHO LIVED IN PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS OPERATED BY THE ROMULUS HOUSING COMMISSION OR LIVED IN PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS IN ANY OTHER CITY BETWEEN MARCH 16, 1971, - SEPTEMBER 26, 1975.

If you rented a house or apartment from the ROMULUS HOUSING COMMISSION or any other Public Housing Agency (PHA) during the period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, you may be eligible to file a claim for a refund of part of your rent during that period if:

1. The wife or husband of the head of the household was present and dependent upon the head of the household for support and/or;
2. a dependent member of your family household was employed.

If you believe your family falls within one of the categories described above, you may wish to continue reading this Notice in order to determine how and under what circumstances you may file a claim.

On July 7, 1978, the District Court of the District of Columbia entered a Stipulated Order providing that the definition of family income for purposes of computing maximum rentals for public housing, as contained in a HUD Circular, which excluded spouses from the $300 deduction for each dependent and excluded dependents from the $300 deduction for each secondary wage earner, was invalid and violated the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended. The effect of this determination is that certain families who lived in public housing during the period from March 16, 1971, to September 26, 1975, may have been charged too much rent. Therefore, the District Court ordered HUD to establish a one million dollar fund for the payment of claims which current or former tenants of public housing may submit for a refund of any overpayments.

The District Court's Stipulated Order provides that, if valid claims exceed one million dollars, HUD has the option of having the Order dissolved in which case NTO and HUD may negotiate a modified settlement or proceed with further litigation. Thus, claimants should realize that the submittal of a claim determined valid by a PHA may result in full, partial, or no payment, depending on the total amount of valid claims submitted to HUD, or the final outcome of any further litigation. Any person wishing to receive a copy of the Stipulated Order or a claim form may do so by making their request known to a local PHA.

Individuals wishing to submit a claim must fill in the claim form made a part of this Notice and must submit it to the Public Housing Agency's address indicated on the claim form, or such other appropriate Public Housing Agency if different from the address indicated, within 120 days from Dec. 6, 1978. No claims will be accepted after the end of the 120 day period, April 6, 1979. Information provided by the claimant on the claim form must be specific as to the time period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, for which the wife or husband of the head of the household was present and was a dependent and/or a dependent in the household was employed.

Publish every week until April 4.

Michigan in March

Events begin spring thaw

March could well be called Michigan's "mightie" month. It "might" snow, it "might" rain, it "might" be sunny and mild and-or all of the above. But, whatever the weather, the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events has something suited for any condition and sparked with fun through everyday of the 31.

While skiers and other winter sports enthusiasts are seeking out the last patches of snow, others have their eyes peeled for some early signs of spring, and Michigan can satisfy both. For the skiers, Indianhead Ski Area at Wakefield will hold the Central Division Championships (Mid-America Finale) March 1-2, and Ski Brule at Iron River will have Free Style Competition March 3-4 and Dual Slalom Races March 10-11.

Cliffs Ridge, Marquette, has been selected as the site of the Intercollegiate Women's National Ski Championships March 7-10. Teams from all parts of the United States, including Alaska, will be participating in giant slalom and slalom competition. Cross country events in the competition are scheduled for Suicide Bowl and Ishpeming.

"Mushers" will make the most of the waning snow season with Sled Dog Races at Cole Creek Lodge in Comins March 3-4, 4 Mile Corners in Newberry March 3-10 and at McGuire's in Cadillac March 17-18.

On the ice, Winter Sports Day at Yack Arena in Wyandotte March 3 will feature the Gold Cup Indoor Speed Championship Meet. There also will be figure skating exhibitions and hard skating, fast action hockey games.

The dazzling choreography of Ice Travaganza '79 will be the center of carnivals are scheduled 17-18. And, on a most optimistic note are the Bikini Races at Indianhead, March 24-25.

When the circus comes to town, spring can't be far behind. That wonderous world of peanuts and pachyderms, flyers and wire walkers comes to the Civic Center in Lansing, with Hospitaler Circus, March 1-4, and with the Shrine Circus, March 16-31, at the State Fairgrounds Coliseum in Detroit.

Many Michigan ski areas are planning to bid farewell to the winter season with free style fun. Spring carnivals are scheduled for Black-jack at Bessemer, March 10-11; Indianhead, Wakefield, March 17-18; Big Powderhorn, Bessemer, March 18; and Crystal Mountain, Thompsonville, March 24-25.

Blackjack's Lumberjack Festival and Ski Brule's Big Brule Bash are both scheduled for March 17-18. And, on a most optimistic note are the Bikini Races at Indianhead, March 24-25.

One of the first, and the sweetest, signs of spring is Maple Sugaring Weekend, March 17-18, at the Nature Center, Kalamazoo, lets you see first-hand how the trees are tapped, the sap collected and transformed into delectable syrup and sugar. The DeLano Homestead—restored pioneer farm at the Nature Center—will be buzzing with maple sugaring activity as it might have been a century ago.

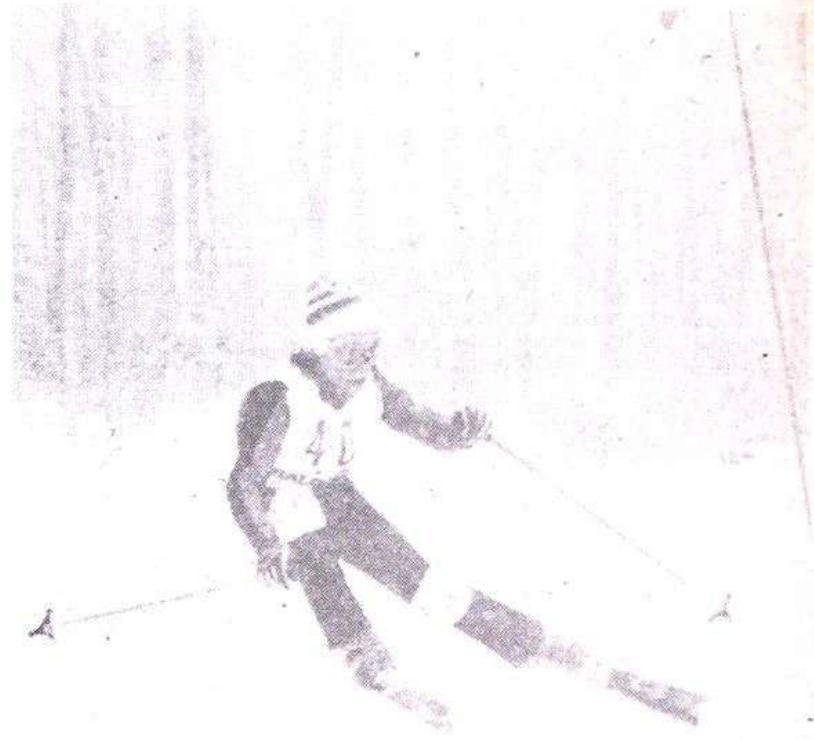

The playbill for March offers a variety of exciting entertainment that's sure to warm the spirit. The meticulous master of mime, Marcel Marceau will enchant the Music Hall in Detroit March 4, and the delightful Mummenschausz Mimes will follow close behind on March 11.

Jazz with a capital "J", direct from its birthplace, comes to the MSU Auditorium in East Lansing March 6 in the capable hands of the Preservation Hall Jazz Band of New Orleans. Before your feet stop tappin' and your hands stop clappin', Herbie Mann will present a jazz concert March 9 at the Center for the Arts in Midland.

Terpsichorean offerings include the Houston Ballet March 12 at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo; the Nikolais Dance Theatre at the Music Hall in Detroit, March 21-25; and a Festival of Russian Dance on March 29 at Miller Auditorium, Kalamazoo.

A few of the other happenings taking place this month in Michigan include Outdoorama, March 9-18, Light Guard Armory, Detroit; NCAA Division II Swimming and Diving Championships, Northern Michigan University, Marquette, March 15-17; Michigan Antique Show-Sale, Crisler Arena, Ann Arbor, March 29-31; and Festivals of Spring, International Institute, Flint, March 30-31.

If you're looking for more ways to put the thaw on winter, look over the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events for March. It's available, free of charge, from the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce, P.O. Box 30226, Lansing 48909.

In competition

Northern Michigan University in Marquette will welcome the Intercollegiate Women's National Ski Championships March 7-10. Downhill competition will be held at Cliffs Ridge, while cross country competition will be at Suicide Bowl in Ishpeming.

STRESS

It has been estimated that more than 20% of our hospital beds are filled, directly or indirectly, because of stress.

Stress is a confiner, a crippler, a killer. It aggravates every disorder known to mankind.

Stress is the accumulated tension which builds on the delicate nervous system. It interferes with the normal function of this system, throwing the control mechanism of every body cell out of its normal relationship.

This alone produces disorder to a great degree.

The human body was not designed to endure the tremendous pressures which today's lifestyle puts on us. If we do not find a way to alter or reduce this amount of stress, we are heading for trouble.

The most obvious way to reduce stress is to maintain the spine, which houses the nervous system, in a way which will keep pressure to a minimum. The best way to do this is with regular visits to your chiropractor who has been specially trained to keep your spine in top condition. Spinal integrity will ensure that the flow of nerve energy is unimpeded along the spinal column. It is very important to eliminate stress here because any stress at the spine will amplify stress in any other part of the body.

Hobbies, exercise and regular eating habits can all help in the battle against stress. But remember, your most important ally in this fight is your chiropractor.

"Hey Doc, What About My Family?"

That's a question that we have heard for years and we have now devised a plan to enable your whole family to enjoy the many benefits of good health.

Many times in the past, after being restored to good health through chiropractic care, our patients have asked about care for their entire family. "I just can't afford to have the entire family treated at the regular office fee," they say. Even though our $10 office call is the very lowest in the area, we realize that it can be a burden to large families.

So, to serve the needs of patients who do not have full family health care insurance, we are proud to announce the Family Health Care Plan which will make good health a family affair.

Under our new plan, which is in effect whenever two or more family members who do not have full family insurance visit us on the same day, the first member pays only $8. The second family member would pay only $3 and the third is only $1. All members after three, no additional charge. In other words the maximum cost for the family would be $12.

We have designed this plan to extend good health to everyone. There is a genuine concern that families should stay healthy together. Good health is, indeed, a family affair and it is an affair to be remembered.

Take advantage of our new plan today. Call now — 422-7800 and ask about our Family plan.

All insurance plans pay for Chiropractic services, including: Blue Shield, Aetna, Metropolitan, Teamsters, auto insurance, workmen's compensation, Medicare and Medicaid.

Chiropractic Care Put My Husband Back on his Feet

On January 3, 1974, my husband suffered a stroke and was hospitalized for four months. During this time he had another stroke.

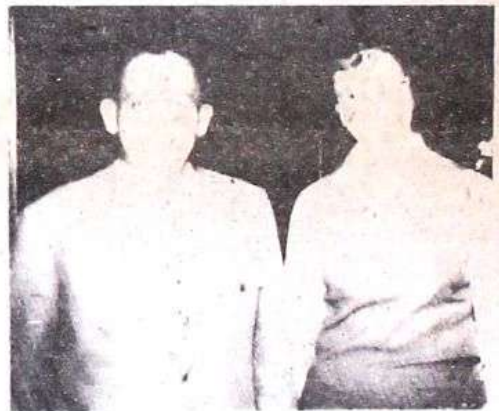

The doctors told me that it didn't matter if I took him for rehabilitation because he would be a "vegetable." With the aid of a walker he came home that May.

It was only after he fell and hurt his back that he agreed to see Dr. Grassam. He practically had to be carried into the office that first time.

In May, 1974, my husband began a regular program of adjustments. I knew chiropractic could help him, since I have been helped by regular adjustments. My legs have had spells of numbness for years.

In August, 1974, my husband returned to work and now he walks unaided. He continues with his visits to the Grassam Chiropractic Life Center and I know his condition will continue to improve.
